Myers at once went to sleep, not appearing at all uneasy over his position. He slept soundly until 7 o'clock this morning and then ate a hearty breakfast. No one was allowed to see him but the officers in harge until the arrival of Chief of Police itsch, who had been notified of the arst by telephone and who had sent strict rders to allow no one to question the prisner until he could see him.

In view of what Myers had sald when placed under arrest it was thought that he would soon weaken and tell the whole story

The officers were not mistaken. At 10 clock this morning Myers was taken to Chief Deitsch's office. He had indicated to the turnkey after breakfast that he intendd to tell his story and when given the optunity he did so. He told how he had en made the victim of a panel game. veral efforts to get him to contradict his ement were fruitless. His story was a raightforward one, related in a plain, sy manner and bearing the general imess of truth. Still some of the police oficials express their doubts.

Chief Deitsch himself said he believed ung Myers committed the murder and imply confessed to his having been an messory to it in order to meet the charges which he knew had already been substanlated by numerous witnesses in Atlanta.

His story that Brown Allen, the gambler, immited the actual deed is not given credence here. When Myers was taken before Chief Deitsch he was cool and collected and did not seem to realize his position. When asked to tell something about himself he said:

The police considered his story an im-They told Myers so, and the prisoner remarked quietly that he could not help it, that it was the truth. Subsequently, several others got him to repeat his story, but he neither changed nor added to it.

He then signed the papers for his return to Georgia and went over to Covingion with Lieutenant Bolan.

Myers was very pleasant to every one. He talks like the murder is just an ordinary event and does not seem to realize his position. The trip across the river to Covington with Lieutenant Bolan was without incident. Myers was locked up at police headquarters there and this evening The Constitution's correspondent called on him for more details concerning the crime. Myers refused to talk further, saying he had told all he cared to tell to the Cincinnati police. At 7 o'clock this evening Lieutenant Bolan handcuffed himself to Myers, and, accompanied by several Covington officers, went to Ludlow, Ky., two miles distant, where they were to take the 8 o'clock train on the Queen and Crescent road for Chattanooga. They missed the train, and will try again tomorrow morning to catch the train for Atlanta. Chief Deitsch stated tonight that the Covington officers were entitled to the prisoner and he warmly congratulated Lieutenant Bolan for what he stated was the best piece of detective work that has been done in Cincinnati for years.

The prisoner accompanied the officers to Kentucky without a murmur.

How He Was Identified.

Myers was betrayed last night by a barber named Monroe, who works in Elcott's barber shop, Covington, The manner in which Monroe identified Myers was thrilling. Monroe had been sitting in the barber shop reading The Enquirer's account of the Crowley murder, and a special from Atlanta giving a full description of Myers. While the matter was still on Monroe's mind, a young man walked in. Monroe was startled, but said nothing. The young man so completely filled the description of Myers that Monroe had just read, that he could scarcely restrain himself from giving the alarm. The young man sat down in a parber chair and ordered his hair dyed. This settled, beyond a doubt, in the mind of Monroe, that the customer was none other than the Atlanta fugitive. He dyed the young man's hair and closely studied his every feature while doing so.

After the customer had departed; Monro again read the description. He was fully satisfied, and hunting up Lieutenant Bolan he told that official.

Bolan started out and traced the young man to Cincinnati, where he found him at the Indiana house at 1 o'clock this morning. Barber Monroe called at the Covington jail tonight and took a look at Myers. He was the same man whose hair he had dved last is guilty the murder was premeditated. This was all Myers could be induced to But it is inconceivable to imagine that a fellow of his shrewdness and tact should plan or be a party to a murder, the sole probable one and would not believe it. purpose of which was robbery, when the financial reward was so small.

> Conley denies everything. He denies that he knows Myers or Jones or Brown Allen. He denies that he ever saw Myers and says it is inconceivable to him now Myers ever connected him with the affair. He either has a trump card to play to prove his absolute innocence and make notoriety for himself in his private detective business, or he is guilty and has shrewdly prepared to cover his tracks and prove an alibi by men who he believes will stand by him in whatever assertions he makes. The latter is, however, not a reasonable conclusion. It looks more like creamstances threw him into a greer attitude. Conley says he will explain all in Atienta tomorrow, but declines to give the names of the men who will acquit him. Yet he says, with a knowning smile, that be will be released before he is in Atlanta a dozen hours, and to one who hears him tell his story it looks like that he may be correct in the assertion, strange as it may seem. He is silent on some very important points. That, however, may be through the bad advice of his lawyer or else it is from the fact that he wants to spring a nine upon his accusers and rise out of the smoke of the blast in a pure white cloud of innocence. Conley Locked Up.

Last night when released no went to The Times office and had a talk with the reporter upon the case. Then he follied about with the boys a while and retired to his room at a local Lotel. This morning he was rearrested in a real estate man's office. This afternoon he en:ployed Attorney Goree to represent him and tonight he informed Detective Holconoe, of Atlanta, who came up to meet Myers, that Mr. Go ree would accompany him to At.s.ta. I saw Conley in his cell at the police station tonight. At first he was blunt and de-clined to talk. His nawyer, he said, had advised him to say nothing. When told that Myers had implicated him in the crime he opened up "omewhat.

Conley is about five feet eleven inches, fairly well built, with red brown hair and reddish sandy mustach. His eyes are small, of the squinty variety, rather close but sparkling and bright. His face is full and square. He was dressed nearly, but plainly, in a black cutaway coat, turned down collar and black scarf. He looks like just what he is, a private detective who cc-casionally runs upon a job in his line. He doesn't wear a prosperous sir, but still he has nothing of the seedy appearance.

Does Not Know Myers. "I am as innocent as you are of this crime," he said as he drew up to the bars crime," he said as he drew up to the bars of the cell, sat himself upon the window sill and thumped his fingers just a little nervously against the center upright bar. "I cannot conceive of any reason why Myers should implicate me in it. I don't even know Myers. I never saw him to know him, nor had I eyer heard of him until'I read of this affair in the papers and

GOOD LUCK ALWAYS FOLLOWS. A Young Lady Advertised in The Con-stitution and Won a Husband.

Meridian, Miss., September 21. -(Special.)-One of the most romantic weddings that has occurred in this vicinity for a long time. was that of Mr. J. F. Hudson, of Shreveport, La., and Miss Ollie Spinks, of Fort Stephens, Kemper county. Both have wealthy parents.

Two years ago Miss Spinks placed an advertisement in The Atlanta Constitution proclaiming that she had a choice variety of watermelon seeds for sale. The advertisement caught the eye of Mr. Hudson who wrote to the lady for several packages of the variety. This letter opened up a general correspondence between the two. This was kept up for two years. In the meantime photographs of each other were exchanged and the couple became engaged. A day in last June was appointed for the wedding. Arrangements were made, but on that day the groom failed to appear. He also failed to notify the bride-elect of the cause of his absence, and the matter ran until yesterday, when tardy groom for the first time apthe peared, and to the parents of the lady gave an account of his delay. In a few hours the couple were wedded. They passed through this city this morning en route to Shreveport, their future home. Both attribute their happiness to the advertisement in The Atlanta Constitution.

ARREST OF COUNTERFEITERS. They Had a Complete Outfit for Making Money. St. Louis, Mo., September 21 .- The United States secret service officers of this district have arrested Adam H. Hoffley, of Ashley, Ill., and J. C. and H. S. Wilson, of Jonesboro, Ark., upon the charge of making and "shoving" counterfeit money. Letters found on the men show that they worked in found on the men show that they worked in harmony. At Hoffley's home the officers found a complete counterfeiting outfit, including two presses, paper, ink, acid, thread paper, plates, etc., in quantities large enough to make $250,000 of "queer" money. Hoffley has always stood well in Ashley and his arrest is a surprise there. The counterfeit is of the $20 silver certificate and is dangerous.

How Hoffley Was Captured. Washington, September 21. The arrest last night of A. H. Hoffley, alias Waterman, at Ashley, Ill., is regarded as a very important capture by the chief of the secret service, Mr. Hazen. Young Hoffley, who did the work, is only twenty-five years old, and it is believed was once employed in the bureau of engraying and printing in this city. The Wilson bothers, who were arrested at Jonesbero, Ark., and who were "shoving" the boro, Ark., and who were "shoving the counterfeit, are wealthy stave dealers. They advanced the money for the plate, it is alleged. Young Hoffley came to grief through a woman. He was traced to Fuffalo through her and captured on his return to Ashley by means of directions sent to the Buffalo postoffice about forwarding his

Richmond, Va., September 21.-(Special.)-Major Joseph Walker, Wray T. Knight and Beverly Taylor, constituting a majority of the republican district committee of this district, met here today and repudiated the action of J. W. Southward and John Mitchell, Jr., the members of the minority faction, in calling a convention which nominated Southward for congress. The resolutions adopted say: "No republican is under any obligation to support the ticket so conceived in sin and born in iniquity, but, on the contrary, the said ticket is unwortny of the support of the republicans of the district." The resolutions deprecate the efforts of Southward and Mitchell to raise the color line. Southward and Mitchell are declared to have by their conduct with-drawn from the republican organization and their positions on the committee are voted vacant and C. W. Harris, of Man-chester, and R. N. Turner, of Goochland, are nominated to succeed them. The secre-tary was directed to send a certified copy of the action of the chairman of the committee to Chairman Mahone and ask his approval

LIVINGSTON GRABS IT AND IS CUT

Young Breckinridge Insults Judge Kinkhead on the Street.

OWENS MEN ARE READY FOR WAR

They Say That the Congressman Had Better Take His Medicine with a Pleasant Face-A Bitter Feeling Exists.

Lexington, Ky., September 21.-Desha Breckinridge had a secisational altercation with James Duanne Livingston, formerly of New York city, in the Pheorix hotel at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Livingston was standing at the news and cigar stand reading an afternoon paper when Desha Breckinridge came in and bought a package of cigarettes. Livingston spoke to Desha and extended his hand, saying:

"It is all over now; we ought to be friends. Shake hands."

Breckinridge with an angry look on his face, replied:

"No, you one-horse scoundrel, I will not take your hand. You profess to be a man's friend and then stab him in the back." Livingston replied to this by saying he had done nothing of the kind, when Breckinridge called him a d-d liar.

Then Livingston struck at Desha and knocked his glasses off, following this up with a blow on the neck. Desha reached in his hip pocket and instantly flashed in the air the long, bright blade of a big dirk.

Both men were as pale as death. Living ston, in a moment of desperation, grabbed at the glittering blade which Breckinridge had aimed at his heart. The knife went between the second and third fingers of Livingston's right hand, cutting the third finger to the bone. The cold steel sent a shudder through Livingston's frame and he grasped his right hand with his left in order to stop the terrible flow of blood that was dyeing the tiling of the lobby.

Desha Breckinridge seemed to desire no more blood and gave Livingston two strong kicks. The hotel clerk and several by standers rushed in and seized Breckinridge and at the same instant Matt Lane, strong Breckinridge man, ran up and said he would take a hand in helping Desha.

Two witnesses say that Lane also flourished a big knife, but Lane denies this. Livingston was hurried into the wash room where his wounds were bathed and he was then taken to the office of a physician, where his hand was dressed. A friend then took Livingston home in a buggy; and Desha, Breckinridge went to his rooms across the street. After the row, the Owens men began to talk, and one of them who has the reputation of not knowing what fear is, said: "If Desha Breckinridge and his friends intend to exterminate all the men who worked for Owens, as they seem to want to do, they will have to enlarge the cemetery. This sort of a thing won't do, no matter how sore they are. They may just as well take their medicine."

J. Duanne Livingston is a man of about thirty years, and is the financial agent of J. Kennedy Tod, owner of the Kentucky Union railroad. He was a strong Owens man, and worked night and day for the victorious candidate. He is from New York city, and, it is said that he there belonged to Tammany. When seen by your correspondent, while his wound was being dress ed, he said:

"I took Desha's abuse and made no attempt to resent it until he' called me a liar. Then I hit him. I think I saved my self from a fatal stab by grabbing his knife." A Row with Judge Kinkhead. Just before the trouble occurred with Livingston, Desha and Lane, who were walking up Main street in front of the Breckinridge headquarters, met Judge George B. Kinkhead, who made several speeches during the campaign, denouncing Colonel Breckinridge in the most scathing terms. Desha Breckinridge sald to Judge Kinkhead that the election was over and he wanted to tell him that he was a d-d liar. He also applied several other vile epithets to the judge, who replied that he was unarmed and did not want to have any difficulty in the open street. Desha told him to go and arm himself and he would meet him anywhere or at any time. He re-

Then Lane, who is a comparatively stranger here, having recently come to Lexington from Mt. Sterfing, said, address-

"So this is Judge Kinkhead, is it? When you said that decent people would not entertain Colonel Breckinridge, you lied. My sister entertained him in Woodford county, and I say to you that you are a --- ... Judge Kinkhead again said that he wanted no trouble on the street, and that he was not armed, when Lane threw his coat off and said that he was not armed either, and then repeated the language that he had previously used to the judge. Judge kinkhead then walked on out the street owards his home. When seen by your correspondent, Lane said:

"Yes, I called him a ---, and I will fight him any way he wants to fight, and what is more, if any of his friends want to take it up, I will fight them, too."

By this time a number of strong Owen men, at least one of whom has already killed his man, began to crowd into the lobby of the hotel. One of Colonel Breckinridge's friends, fearing that there would be trouble with Lune, got J. Breckinridge Villey, a strong Breckinridge supporter, to go in and persuade Lane to leave the hotel. At first Lane declined to go, but after tak-ing a drink with Villey, he listened to the latter's advice and went home.

grand lodge this morning the report of the committee on the Patriarchs' Militant was taken up. Representative Rixey, of Missouri, sought to amend the report by making all members of the scariet degree eigible for admission into the Patriarchs' Militant, but the proposition was deated. The preamble and resolutions from New York touching the status of aged members whose lodges are defunct were reported on and adopted.

The foreign relations of the order are reported in fine condition and $500 was donated to extend the work in Europe. The report of the committee adversely to allow lodges the privilege of making a minimum benefit of $1 per week for a limited time and an increase to $2 afterwards was laid over for another year.

The judiciary committee reports that support of the widows and the maintenance of the orphans of deceased Odd Fellows is not a charity, but a legal obligation, and that in the discharge of this sacred duty a grand lodge has full power to make reasonable and necessary assessments upon the subordinate lodges to provide and magnath homes for such dependents.

The special committee appointed to investigate the misappropriation of funds in Fargo, N. D., reported that the Fargo local committee had received $13,000 and disbursed to the brethren $8,000; and that the disbursement was not to sufferers by fire, but to those who were able to at once donate the same to their lodge to be used in payment of mortgages on lodge property. The actual relief extended was only about $2,200, and the balance was used as above. The committee found that the action of the Fargo brethren was censurable in the highest degree and ordered the grand lodge of North Dakota to at once action of the Fargo brethren was censurable in the highest degree and ordered the grand lodge of North Dakota to at once see that all donations given to the relief of actual distress—the original purpose of the call—be at once returned to the donators. The peculiar feature of this case was that the grand lodge of North Dakota found that it was a misappropriation of the donation, but took no active steps to force a restitution of the money and the report adopted this day censures, in emphatic terms, this apparent indifference to the injustice done the real sufferers, as well as those whose liberality was so fra-

At the close of the afternoon session "the Kansas matter" was reached, but the body adie rned before wading into it. This is a ruestion in which the Kansas brethren are deeply concerned. To them it involves their ownership or control of a property valued at $100.00, and naturally every Odd Fellow in Kansas, as well as the civil courts of the country, are looking anxiously for its termination. SUICIDE IN JAIL.

Jones, the Notorious Assailant of Lit-

He died shortly before 8 o'clock. He left a long shortly before a citical field and severely arraigning the state attorney and all the witnesses for the prosecution. He secured the morphine six weeks ago for the purpose for which it was used, and had it concealed about his person with a determination to use it in the event of conviction. Jones was about sixty years of age. He was well connected, and a prominent member of the Odd Fellows, Masons and other or-ders. His victims, several in number, are under fourteen years of age, and told piti-ful stories of his assaults and the means employed by him to accomplish his fiendish purpose. The remains were removed from the jail this morning by friends and mem-bers of the fraternities to which he belong-ed. Special Judge Baker, in court today, warned all who had censured the court and jury to desist from further comments.

The executive committee of the union this morning received a long list of grievances from the pantsmakers, which they want adjusted before they will return to work. Several small contractors had applied to sign the new agreement which the strikers insist on, but it is not yet completed and probably will not be before to-morrow.

THE LOCAL DEVELOPMENTS. What Was Done in the Myers Case in Atlanta Yesterday. At 12 o'clock yesterday Detective Ivey arrested E. B. Drake, an employe of Keily & Dunn's, and he was carried to police headarters charged with being accessory to the murder of Crowley.

tives got on to a clue which caused then to think that it would be proper to arrest Drake.

At the time of his arrest he was at the coal yard of Kelly & Dunn, on Spring street, where he has been employed for the last month.

It was thought by the detectives that Drake was "the other fellow" referred to in the confession of Myers. It is known that Jones and he were together during the afternoon and that they drove together about dinner time to the coal yard.

Drake is a rather nice looking young man with a generous face and has a frank way of talking. He is originally from Nashville Tenn., and has been in Atlanta for only stay in the city he operated the laundry in West End, and since then has been with firm of Kelly & Dunn, on the corner of Marietta and Forsyth.

Indignant Over Arrest. Drake was seen at his cell yesterday afternoon. He was singing cheerfully, and ed in a happy humor.

In the afternoon I came down town and went to the coal yard where I remained during the afternoon. It is not right that I should be pulled into this affair when I know nothing in the world concerning it."

Mr. Blackburn Dunn, of the firm of Kelly & Dunn, is a nephew of Drake. He is also very much vexed over the arrest of the young man. It was difficult for him to control his rare when speaking of the affair.

and no one would be father from crime or any kind than he. I am willing to testify that he was at my home all the morning."

Mr. Dunn was asked where he lived.

"In West End," he replied. "I will testify," he continued, "that he was there during the morning, and my wife will give evidence to the same fact. He helped my wife to freeze cream and did other little things about the house. When I came home at dinner he drove into town with me and dinner he drove into town with me and went from there to the coal yard. I feel that he will come out all right, but it is a terrible mistake and people should be careful before they arrest an innocent man."

Mr. Dunn is strongly of the opinion that Charley Jones had nothing at all to do with the affair. "He was at my office during part of the morning, and was also at the office of Mr. Inman. The way he was connected with our firm was this: He would solicit orders for steam coal and turn them in to orders for steam coal and turn them

I am satisfied that there will be no attempt to take Myers away from us. "If there should be, however, we are prepared and will offer the last resistance. It would be all folly for a mob to try to take the prisoner from us. It is our de termination to bring him to Atlanta and put him as speedily as possible before the courts of justice. I give no credence all these reports of lynching that I have referred to and, as I said, I don't think that any attempt will be made."

What Chief Wright Says. In order to more effectually work up the evidence against all the parties now un-der arrest and look out for the local features which may spring out of the case, Chief Wright, of the detective force, will not accompany the officers to Chattanooga. "I have heard the reports about the train being stopped and Myers being mobbed," he said, "but I do not think that there will be anything in it. I venture to say that be anything in it. I venture to say that there will not be fifty people at any sta-tion between Atlanta and Chattanooga. It is natural to suppose that the people of Roswell are indignant and wrought up, but they know that it is for the best that Myers be brought to Atlanta and given an opportunity to clear up the whole thing. It is my opinion that he will tell all he knows when the full facts of the case are laid before him as we have learned them."

A Strong Guard It Is. The guard which will accompany Chief Connoily is made up of the most determined Connoily is made up of the most determined and bravest men on the Atlanta force. Sergeant White is one of the oldest officers on the force. He has had more thriling experiences than any other man connected with the department. There is not a limb on his body but bears some scar which tells the tale of an awful struggle. In 1882 his right leg was out in two and the muscles on each side severed. In the discharge of his duty he has been shot three times, narrowly escaping with his life each time.

Sergeant Slaughter is a man cut after Sullivan in his palmy days. He is made up of muscle and has the reputation of being the most powerful man on the force with the exception of Captain Moss. Slaughter is a man of action and he has the head to know just what to do at the right time.

Who Was the Woman?

It was learned at police headquarters from telegrams from Cincinnati that Myers in his confession stated that he was used as the tool of Brown Allen, who was work ing the "panel game? on him. He stated that he was infatuated with the sister of Allen, who took advantage of him and mede him a party to the crime. In the afternoon Chief Connolly received the following telegram from Superintendent Deitsch, of Cincinnati:

"Myers says girl lives on Decatur street. Named Emma Allen. Don't know number. Will assist in finding her when he gets

During the afternoon every effort was made by the detectives to locate some one corresponding to the description of the girl who was implicated by Myers. It was known to the detectives that Ben Allen the only gambler of the name known here had no sister living in Atlanta nor could any woman by that name be located here. Many think that the statement of Myers in this respect is false and that there is no woman connected with the case.

Allen Has a Record.

The officers got a clue from which they believe that Ben Allen was in Atlanta Sat-urday. It is said that he was seen also by Solicitor Thomas of the city court. Jones Takes It Coolly.

Charley Jones is one of the coolest and most unconcerned prisoners ever confined in the station house. The statement of Myers that he was connected with it does not seem to trouble him in the least. Jones has a cot in the corridor and spends most of his time on his back with a cigarette between his fingers.

"It makes no difference to me" he said of his time on his back with a cigarette between his fingers.

"It makes no difference to me," he said yesterday afternoon "what Myers says. He cannot prove nor can any one prove that I was with him that day. As I said before, I saw him only once and we simply passed and spoke on the streets.

"I have witnesses to prove where I was every hour of the day. This thing don't trouble me any more than that," he said snapping his fingers. "Of course, I feel sorry for the mother of Myers and the parents of Crowley, but beyond that this whole murder does not bother he at all." "As soon as I am given a change I will prove that I had nothing in the world to Jones was visited by his father yesterday afternoon. "My son, I know is not guilty," he said.

"Why the Crowleys are related to

"Why the Crowleys are related to us Mrs. Crowley is my second cousin and the boys boarded with us for months. We all knew Forrest Crowley well at that time. He was one of the eleverest men I ever knew."

"I have not seen Forrest Crowley for two years, though," interrupted Charley Jones. "I used to see him when he was at our house, but I never met him afterwards.

"I knew his brother well, and was one of the first men to reach him after he committed suicide. He was a tall fellow and better looking than Forrest."

Jones says that he feels satisfied that after investigation by the coroner's jury that he will be exonorated.

Crowley's Father Talks.

Crowley's Father Talks On the 4:30 train returning to Roswell yesterday afternoon was Mr. Seaborn Crowley, the father of the murdered man. "It relieved me," he said, "when I saw this morning, from the paper that Myers had been caught. I somehow thought that he would get away. Chief Connolly and his yes have certainly done good work and I men have certainly done good work, and I shall never forget them." Mr. Crowley was asked why he suspected Myers of the murder that afternoon.

"I did not suspect him of the murder," he said. "I thous, that there was something queer in his actions and I could not understand them. I knew that Forrest would not stay away to long" he said in a voice. stay away so long," he said in a voice choked with grief, "and I felt that some-thing was wrong."

Mrs, Crowley Fatally Ill. "I would stay over in Atlanta tonight," he said, "if it was not for the fact that my wife was so ill.

"The shock will kill her. She may be dead before I reach home this afternoon. I am very uneasy about her."

If the condition of his wife permits Mr. Crowley will return to Atlanta this morning to attend the inquest.

Mr Heath Talks. Mr. A. T. Heath, aprominent citizen of Atlanta, who lives at 255 Ashby street, has been on terms of intimacy with the Crowleys for a long time. He lived at Roswell about fourteen years. "The theory," said he,"that Forrest Crowley had gone out with Myers and others ley had gone out with Myers and others to engage in a game of cards when he was killed is absolutely without foundation. I have known the young man since he was a child, and for the last four years have been most intimately associated with him. I had his fullest confidence in all relations, business, social and otherwise, and I nev-er heard of his gambling. The statements to the centrary do an injustice to his memory, and deeply wound his devoted family. No sir, Myers had never met Forrest until he went to see him about the mule trade at Roswell on last Monday. The report that they had met on a fishing excursion last summer is untrue, as is also the report that there had been a correspondence between the two young men.

"In this connection I am authorized by the dead man's father to say that Forrest had never seen Myers in his life before last Monday.

"When Myers was driven up to Crowley & Son's store at Roswell on Monday he asked the hack driver to point out Forrest to him, who was sitting on the porch among several other gentlemen. This alone would indicate that the young men were strangers.

"Myers was not met at the depot by Forrest and carried to the latter's home, as stated in some of the papers.

"After meeting Forrest and opening the way for a trade for the mules, Mycrs went to the Gamson house and got his dinner. He joined Forrest at his livery stables after dinner and spent most of the afternoon there arranging a trade for the mules. He spent the night at the hatel and left Los-well in Crowley & Son's hask Tuesday morning. At Mr. Crowley's house Mr. Seaborn Crowley and As son Forrest got into the hack and all three men proceeded to the depot, where they took the train to-

SIGNIFICANT TESTIMONY. Strong Facts Brought Out Before the Coroner's Jury Yesterday. The coroner's inquest, which was resumed at the county courthouse yesterday morning, developed some significant testimony. It was shown that for at least two weeks Myers had been endeavoring to sell Crowley's mules, although he had never seen them, nor even approached Crowley regarding their purchase.

It also developed a strong conflict in testimony as to Myers's wereabouts on Sunday. Two witnesses swore that Myers was in Dunwoody, a small station three miles east of Roswell, Saturday night and all day Sunday.

It further developed, according to the testimony, that Myers only met Crowley Monday morning, introducing himself as he stepped from the hack that runs from the stepped from the sarrow gauge railroad across the

Dr. W. L. Gilbert, who examined Forress Crowley after death, next testified.

"I found three bruisses," said he, "one near each eye and one in the center of the forehead. These seemed to have been made with a blunt instrument. They were not sufficient to produce death. I found a bullet hole entering the back of his head and ranging downward and forward. I am satisfied that this was sufficient to kill almost instantly. It must have been fired by some one behind him and while he was "aryling up or lying on his face on the Democratic Leaders in New York Discuss Candidates for Governor.

THEY MEET IN MR. HILL'S OFFICE

Thatcher, Lamont, Whitney Gayner and Lockwood Are Considered, but No Definite Conclusion Is Reached.

Albany, N. Y., September 21 .- A confer ence of some of the democratic leaders was held here today at Senator David B. Hill's law office. Lieutenant Governor Sheehan was in conference with Senator Hill until after 4 o'clock, when Hon. Edward Murphy, Jr., and Major James W. Hinckley, of poughkeepsle, who has been talked of to succeed Senator Murphy as chairman of the democratic state committee and ex-Senator McCarthy, of Brooklyn, representing the King's county regular democratic organization, arrived at Senator Hill's office and joined the conference, which lasted until 6

At its conclusion it was admitted that the candidate to be nominated for governor next Tuesday at Saratoga, was the subject of the discussion, but the differences of opinion were so great that no conclusion was arrived at. The candidates, they said, were Hon. John Boyd Thatcher, of Albany; Jus tice William J. Gaynor, of Brooklyn; Daniel s Lamont, ex-Senator of State Frederick Cook, of Rochester; Andrew H. Green, of New York; Hon. W. C. Whitney and Danel Lockwood, of Buffalo. Those who took part in the conference stated that they were of the opinion that from the present outlook the convention would have to harmonize the different interests and that several ballots would be necessary to determine who the democratio nominee would be Another consultation will likely be held tomorrow.

A ticket talked about here today was: For governor, John Boyd Thatcher; for lieutenant governor, Frederick Cook; for associate judge of the court of appeals, William J. Gaynor.

One thing is certain-and the leaders themselves said so tonight—and that is, that the race for governor is anybody's at the present writing. It is also not unlikely that before Sunday night a favorite may come into the field whose name has not yet been generally mentioned in connection with the mocratic nomination for governor.

It is said tonight that Senator Hill would be selected by the regular democratic organization tomorrow to go to Saratoga as a delegate from the fourth (Albany) assembly district.

duBIGNON AND SMITH.

The Former's Financial Views Are Like Mr. Turner's.

Thomasville, Ga., September 21 .- (Special.) The largest democratic rally in the history of south Georgia was held here today. More than 5,000 people were in attendance. They came from all over wiregrass Georgia and eastern Alabama. The business part of the city was gayly decorated with bunting and flags and the day was a gala one in the true sense of the word. The speakers of the day were Messrs. Hoke Smith and Fleming duBignon.

duced by Colonel Robert G. Mitchell. He made an eloquent and forcible speech. completely captivating the crowd by his matchless oratory. He spoke on state issues mainly, but defined his position on silver. He is a bimetallist and against the free and unlimited coinage of silver at 16 to 1. His position on that question is quite, identical with that of ongressman Turner.

Secretary Smith spoke for more than two hours and made one of the best speeches ever made here. His high endorsement of Smith devoted a goodly portion of his speech to the populists.

Mr. duBignon said that he was a bimetallist in the true and genuine sense of the term. He was as much opposed to monometallism of silver as he was to a single gold standard. The fundamental difference etween the democrats and populists was that the democrats believe in bimetallism and the populists believe in flat money. At no time in the history of the country did gold and silver maintain companionship except under the inflexible rule of equality in value. What the people are now interested in was not the product of either terested in was not the product of either metal, but the free circulation of both metals, both possessing equal purchasing debt-paying power. No democrat, as far as he knew, who spoke for his party, favor-ed the demonetization of silver. The temporary suspension of its coinage had been dvocated from Jefferson to the present All democrats who are loval to the platform of the party favored bimetallism, and therefore favored the free coinage of silver whenever a proper ratio could be maintained between the two metals.

The world's fair award to Dr. Price's Baking Powder speaks for itself. It pro-claims the superiority of this popular brand over every other.

AN OVATION TO MR. CRISP.

The Speaker Makes an Able Speech Many Ladies Present.

Cedartown, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)— Speaker Crisp reached Cedartown last night and was tendered an informal reception at the rooms of the Cherokee Club. It was a pleasant occasion and afforded a large number of the citizens an opportunity to meet the distinguished visitor.

This morning Mr. Crisp was driven over he city and he wewed the immense iron pre beds in Polk. At noon he addressed one if the level the contract of the level the city and he were the city and he was the contract of the level the of the largest political audiences that ever assembled in this county. It was the most masterly effort ever heard in Cedartown and was the most convincing presentation situation ever listened to here. The peech captivated everybody and has m votes for the democratic party in Polk. No speaker here was ever accorded a more en-thusiastic reception. A large number of ladies graced the day by their presence. Speaker Crisp won all hearts by his visit.

SPEAKING AND DINNER.

Crawford County People Get a Double

Treat from the Democrats. Knoxville, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)— This has been a field day for Crawford county. Hon. Joe James spoke to a large crowd of enthusiastic democrats here this morning. He was introduced by J. N. Mathews, chairman of the county democratic committee, in a few fitting remarks. Before proceeding with his speech, Mr. James proposed to divide time with any ulist speaker who might be present.

proposition was not accepted, although candidate for the legislature on the populist ticket was present. Mr. James made an excellent argument, abusing no party or individual, but dealt fairly with them all. He held his hearers for two hours and twenty-five minutes, after which all partook of a well prepared dinner.

TRADE GROWS BETTER.

Is a Stendy Improvement, Especially in the South, New York, September 21.—In their report of the state of trade Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

The condition of general trade this week is an improvement over one week ago, in that favorable leatures reported then have been maintained. The surprisingly good reports of business south, and, with some exceptions, west, are inacated by our special advices from baitimore, Nasavine, Unicago, St. Louis, Portiand, Ore., and San Francisco. Dailtimore jobbers in all leading lires report the volume of merchandise distributed in excess of expectation, and espe-cially dry goods in South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, except in fruit and coal re-gions. Other southern products being in good supply, orders continue liberal and mercanthe collections are easy. Nashvine, while reporting no improvement over fa-vorable leatures made last week, notes their continuance and that conections are

"Charleston telegraphs that general trade is fair, without new features; Chattanooga that there has been some slight improvement in business; Memphis, that business is quite active, especially in dry goods and groceries; Atlanta, that collections are freer and trade is improving; Savannah, that the volume of business continues to improve and that extraordinarily heavy dealings in spirits of turpentine have taken place. Dry goods jobbers at Augusta have been doing a larger business than for som time previous; while at Jacksonville local trade has been cut into by heavy rains. Only a fair volume of business is reported from Birmingham, and at New Orleans there has been very little change. Galves ton reports that sales of dry goods will con-tinue smaller until the middle of October, when new orders will be received. Texas cotton is beginning to move, which helps business collections."

The Vossische Zeitung's correspondent in St. Petersburg says that much uneasiness is felt in the capital on account of the czar's illness, the exact nature of which is the subject of many rumors. It is believed generally that he is afflicted with a chronic and serious malady.

The Women Know Best.

Much comment has been caused by the official reports of the United States and Canadian governments, in which are pre-sented the evidences of the superior strength purity and wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

It is true that the good housewife looks upon commendations of the Royal Baking Powder from scientists and official sources such as these very much like "the gliding of refined gold." Her practical experience long since taught her in the most convincing way the great usefulness and superiority of the Poyal article. A higher proof them of the Royal article. A higher proof than this she does not want and cannot have. Yet it is pleasant for her to realize that the facts established by these great competi-tive tests, these scientific examinations made under direction of the government, exactly parallel those she had before work ed out in her own common-sense, practical Special Photographs Are to Be Made for the Big Show.

Washington, September 21.-Special.)-The geological survey today started out a corps of photographers to secure scenes among the southern hills and mountains, and views of the mineral districts of Georgia. North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky, preparatory to the display it expects to make at the Cotton States and International exposition. The corps is in charge of J K. Hillyer, chief of the photographic bureau. Professor Clarke, who will have charge of this portion of the government display, said that the corps was sent out at this time, so that the negatives could be developed before the government building was erected. It is proposed to have one end of the building made into a network of these photographic transparencies, and heavy glass plates would have to be ready for framing as the building went up. The corps will reach Atlanta in three weeks' time. It will take in the Cranbury iron districts in North Carolina. Those ground Knoxville, the scenes about the French Broad and Asheville and Chattanooga, before going into the mountains of northern

The Populist Refuses. Gadsden, Ala., September 21.—(Special.)—
Hon. W. H. Denson, democratic nominee for congress from the seventh district, has challenged W. M. Howard, the populist nominee, to a joint discussion, but Howard has refused to accept. He was told to name his conditions and still he refused.

The Democratic Nomines for Congress Hands in His Resignation.

HIS REASONS ARE PURELY PERSONAL

When He Accepted the Nomination He Was at Liberty to Do So, but Finds Now That He Cannot Run.

Selma, Ala., September 21.-(Special.)-Mardis L. Wood, democratic nominee for congress of the fourth district in a letter addressed to the chairman of the district committee, withdraws from the race and requests that another convention be called to name a democratic candidate. He states that his withdrawal is prompted by purely personal reasons.

Mr. Wood is the foremost democrat in this section of the state, and his election was an absolute certainty. The announce ment that he had withdrawn came as a great surprise to his friends. He will take the stump for the next nominee, whoever he may be.

John M. Caldwell, of Calhoun, has announced himself as a candidate. Congressman Robbins will also be before the convention.

Wood's letter is as follows:

"Selma, Ala., September 21.—Hon. T. W. Ayers, Chairman Democratic Executive Committee of the Fourth Congressional District of Alabama—Dear Sir: On the 4th Instant the democratic convention for the fourth district named me as the democratic candidate for congress in this district. The nomination was a great honor, it was highly appreciated and was accepted in good faith. Democrats in all parts of the district nave given me assurance of their hearty support. No democrat, so far as I know or have given me assurance of their hearty support. No democrat, so far as I know or have leard, has expressed his intention to withhold his support from me in November. At no time have I had a doubt of my election and have none now, but for reasons that are purely personal and which did not exist at the time the nomination was made. I prefer to remain in the ranks of the party and to do whatever I can for the promotion of others. For this reason, and for this reason only, I hereby resign my candidacy for congress and ask you to take the proper steps to have named another democratic candidate in this district. That the candidate named by our party will be elected does not admit of a doubt. In advance, I pledge my hearty support. Beyond expression the district for the emphatic expression of confidence in me, implied in the nomination for this high place. I can never forget the party and personal friends whose zeal for me has gone beyond a brother's. Respectfully yours. MARDIS L. WOOD."

Colonel Caldwell a Candidate. Wood's letter is as follows:

Colonel Caldwell a Candidate. Anniston, Ala., September 21.—(Special.)— Since the resignation of Mardis L. Wood for congress it becomes necessary to call another convention to nominate a democratic standard bearer. Through the earnest solicitation of his friends, Colonel John M. Caldwell, of this place, announces him-self as a candidate for the nomination. Colonel Caldwell is the senior member of the law firm of Caldwell & Johnson. He was born in this county, and has spent all his life here. He has several times represented his county in the legislature, and he has never sought political recognition, he has always taken an active part in advocating democracy. He is recognized as a lawyer of superior ability and a man of unques sonable character.

Sad Accident at Tuscaloosa. Tuscaloosa, Ala., September 21.—The Tuscaloosa Gazette says:

"Very sad and shocking news comes from Cottondale neighborhood. In the storm of Monday afternoon Mr. John Robinson was struck by lightning and instantly killed. He lives about ten miles from town and was within a very few yards of his house when death met him. The oxen he was driving were also severely shocked. "Mr. Mac Bibby was driving along right in front of Robinson and his horse was killed by the stroke and he himself stunned very severely. "Robinson leaves a large family to mourn his untimely death."

One of Alabama's Best Schools. Florence, Ala., September 21.-The Flor-State Normal opened its twenty-second session one day later than announced in the catalogue, one owing to the death of Professor J. W. Morgan, Jr., a member of the faculty, who died Monday evening, and whose funeral service was conducted yesterday afternoon at the Presbyterian church. Long before the ringing of the first bell the students began to gather on the campus, and when the hour for opening arrived the halls and rooms were literally packed with anylous students to witness what proved to be by for the largest opening in the history of the institution, A New Line of Steamers.

A New Low-Price Record. New York, September 21.—A new low-price record was made for cotton today, when October contracts sold at 6.27, and further sold off to 6.24. The lowest pre-vious record was in 1892, when March contracts sold at 6.28. In ante-bellum days still lower prices occasionally were curstill lower prices occasionally were current under slave labor, but never before in the history of the cotton exchange has the price of the staple touched the low figure now current. The immediate cause of the decline is the large movement of cotton at the ports and the interior, with an indifferent market for it even at the present low prices. Sentiment on 'change is bearish, and as low as 6 cents is predicted for cotton in the not remote future, based on the expectation of a nine-million-bale crop, with 9,500,000 bales possible, and no estimate worth considering below 8,500,000 bales. In view of the bearish conditions prevailing, there is a large accumulation of short interest here and the pessimistic view of the future generally taken leads some of the more careful operators to be conservative, as, in the event of any to be conservative, as, in the event of any bull movement being started, the short interest would be an important factor in a rapid advance of the price.

HOW THE HORSES RAN.

Talent Had a Bad Day at Gravesend Today's Entries.

Race Track, Gravesend, L. I., September 21.—Fine weather, a good track and a wellfilled card, drew a large crowd to the track here this afternoon. The sport was inter-esting, two of the races resulting in hard drives, but as only two favorites secured first money, the talent had a bad day of it. The Canarsie stakes, a selling event, the only fixture of the card, was won by Keene's good filly, Irish Reel, after a hard drive with Urania and Bright Phoebus. Saragossa easily beat Banquet and Jordan in the second race on the card, a handleap, one and one-eighth miles, but was disqualified for fouling, and the race was given to Banquet. Owlet, Victorious and Leonawell won their races quite easily, but Flora Thornton took the purse in the third only after a hard drive with Declare. Summarios.

UNEARTHING DISCRIMINATIONS.

City with Water Competition Thinks She Is Badly Treated. Savannah, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—A large and enthusiastic meeting was held in the city exchange today by the business men of Savannah for the purpose of dis cussing the matter of organizing a freight bureau for the city. Captain D. G. Purse has been working the matter up for some time and has unearthed countless dis-criminations in freight rates against Sa-vannah. Some of these he has carried on complaint before the state railroad com-

The meeting resulted in the appointment of a large committee of business men of which Captain Purse was made chairman for the purpose of inquiring into the nec-essary preliminary steps, cost, etc., of organizing such a bureau to report at a sub-sequent meeting. Bonds of the North and South Railroad Said to Be Purchased.

Dallas, Tex., September II.—The news was given out today by representatives of the Faringrs' State Alliance, which organization is very strong and influential in Texas, that $3,000,000 worth of the bonds of the projected North and South railroad, from the Manitoba line to the guif, chartered as the Interstate and Guif, have been sold to English capitalists and that negotiations are nearly closed for the sale of $5,000.000 to English capitalists and that negotiations are nearly closed for the sale of $2,000,000 worth more. The scheme of the promoter is to have state identity in the construction and ownership of the line. The English and ownership of the line. The English capitalists say they prefer to invest in the bonds of a road thus controlled than in the bonds of an exclusive railroad corporation, as there is less possibility of too great an amount of obligations being lodged on to the properties and that they believe such a road would earn at least 6 per cent and can be built for a cost not exceeding $10,000 a mile. The line as surveyed through Texas was contemplated to run east of Dallas. was contemplated to run east of was contemplated to run east of Dallas, but the English capitalists insisted before agreeing to purchase the bonds that the road must be built through the larger cities of the state in which it runs, as it would

Five-Cent Cotton.

Three or four months ago The Constitution, discussing the probable as well as the visible effects of the re-es tablishment and ratification of the single gold standard by the refusal of congress to substitute democratic legis lation for the Sherman act, inquired whether the farmers of the south would be compelled by the constantly increasing value of money, based on gold, to sell their cotton crop for 5 cents a pound.

The inquiry appeared to worry some of our goldbug contemporaries. They protested against such suggestions. The Charleston News and Courier de clared that the idea of five-cent cotton was preposterous, and it made other remarks characteristic of the profound ignorance that the average goldbug brings to bear on the discussion of the money question. But the farmers of Georgia woke up yesterday morning to discover that five-cent cotton was in plain view. They woke up to discover that the erop on which they place their main dependence has fallen in the last four years nearly 6 cents a pound, Meanwhile we have what the goldbugs call "sound money" and everything is all serene for those who get their income from bonds or from fixed salaries.

During the last four years cotton has fallen from 11 cents a pound to less than 6. The goldbug professors and apologists declare that the fall in prices is due to improved machinery, but we should be glad for some of them to send us photographs of the improved machinery employed in the production of cotton that will justify the reduction of nearly $30 on every five-hundred-pound bale sent to market. The farmers can produce cotton at no less cost now than they could in 1890, and they can produce it at very little less cost than they did in 1873. But twenty-one years ago a farmer could pay a debt of $100 with a five-hundred-pound bale of cotton, but now he is compelled to produce nearly ly the same same amount of taxes.

And yet we are told that the farmer is better off now than ever because he has "sound money." This is the consolation that all the people get when they protest against the robbery that is going on under the operations of the single gold standard. They are warned to hold up their hands and make no outery because the robbery is going on in the name of "sound money." It is as if a train robber should quote from the New Testament while taking the purses of the passengers.

Colonel Hammond's Address.

Colonel Hammond's admirable address before the democratic league Thursday night is well worth reading by those who take an interest in the money question. He reviews our money question from the beginning and accompanies the facts with comments that illuminate the subject.

Only on one point is Colonel Hammond liable to be misunderstood by those who heard or read his address. He says that "the democrats limited silver coinage in 1853." The statement, while perfectly true, is liable to be misunderstood when taken in connection with what follows. The coinage of silver dollars was not limited in 1853 nor at any time before or afterwards until the mints were closed to silver in 1873. The limitation covered only subsidiary silver coins. The owner of bullion could not, after 1853, go to the mint and have his silver coined into half dollars, quarters and dimes, but he could have it coined into silver dollars without limit. The reason of this was that the French mints, by coining silver at the ratio of 451/2 to 1 (ours being 16 to 1) was practically offering a premium on silver. Congress, therefore, took into its own hands, the coinage of our subsidiary money, and in order to prevent its export to France, reduced the number of grains in the half dollar from 2061/4 to 192 standard silver, and the smaller ins in proportion.

In short, the coinage of silver was limited in 1853 just as the coinage of gold was limited in 1892. The owner of gold bullion can have an unlimited tity of it coined into the multiple lars, but he cannot have it coined o dellar units.

another statement made by Colonel immond is worth noting. He is opsed to changing the ratio, and gives reasons for it briefly but unanswerathe shows that "in all the counces which use a gold standard and which use a good scanned is be-nd sliver both, the range is be-15½ and 16. Now," says Colonel 104d, "to change our ratio upon in rs between New Orleans and the mouth of the Magdalena river causes The St. Louis Republic to make the point that as New Orleans is 700 miles earer to Colombia than New York. there is no good reason why the trade of the Mississippi valley should not take the nearer route.

If we can manufacture in the east and sell at a profit 2,000 miles west of us on the Pacific coast we can do the same with the countries 2,000 miles south of is. The Republic goes on to say:

One of the principal articles of export from the United States to Colombia is flour. During the year ending June 30th last we shipped 108,465 barrels of flour to that country. Last July's shipments amounted to 42,261 barrels. Our consuls in Colombia all say that this flour trade can be greatly increased without any year great effort. creased without any very great effort. Vice Consul Pellet, of Barranquilla, reports that 25.815 sacks of flour of 125 pounds each were received at that one port last year from New York city. The flour or the wheat from which it was made came from the Mississippi valley. If there had been a line of steamers from New Orleans to Bar ranguilla a considerable portion of this flour would have been shipped by the more direct route. St. Louis should have a big slice of this flour trade in the future. Cartagena's flour imports from this country have av eraged 12,000 barrels a year for several years Medellin, a mining town on the Magdalen river 200 miles and more in the interior of the country, received 24,600 sacks of 122 pounds each last year, Colon, 3,600 barrels and Panama, 26,250 sacks. It was all Anser

Our hardware dealers may be interested in knowing that Colombia bought $257,000 worth of builders' hardware and saws and tools during the last fiscal year. Her imports of American boilers, engines and machinery amounted to $120,000. There was a falling off for the year, but the trade in July this year, the lest month reported on, amounted to $31,311, or five times as much as that of July, 1893. There has been a gain the present calendar year of about $33,000. Our export trade with Colombia in furniture, woodenware and other articles manufactured from wood reached $53,893 last year. This is exclusive of machinery. We have a pretty good trade there in agricultural machinery.

In provisions we sold Colombia $161,000 worth of lard last year, $20,000 worth of butter, $13,000 worth of beef, $3,000 worth of of cheese. In cotton goods our Colombia trade amounted to $160,357 last year. In July last there was a gain of about 15 per cen over our trade in the same time last year As St. Louis is a great lumber market, w may add that our shipments of lumber Colombia last year amounted to $132,000.

These facts concerning the trade of St. Louis with South America are very suggestive. There is no reason why Savannah and Brunswick and other south Atlantic ports and interior centers like Atlanta should not reach out for the trade of the countries south of

Our Cotton States and International exposition is based on this idea, and the most experienced producers and traders in the United States are almost unanimous in the opinion that when we get the representatives of Spanish America here with their exhibits alongside of the exhibits of the south, north and west, the results will lead to the tariff with all the countries of South America, Central America, Mexico and the West Indies.

Our southern neighbors for genera tions have been sending four-fifths of their trade to Europe simply because we have not sought it in the right way. It is time for us to correct our mistake We can make our exposition inaugurate the beginning of a new era in our foreign trade.

No More Coroners.

The New York constitutional convention has abolished the office of coroner. It is said that in New York there are many abuses connected with this office The coroners make it their business to investigate many cases where there is really no necessity for it. They invade the homes of grief-stricken families and put them to unnecessary inconvenience and mortification.

Public sentiment is so much opposed to the coroners that the convention has wiped them out, and hereafter their work will be done by other officials, probably by the city physicians.

It is a startling innovation. The office of coroner is one of the oldest known to the laws of this country and England In certain emergencies the coroner is the only officer who is authorized to arrest a sheriff. Perhaps it would have been better if the New York convention had regulated the coroner's mode of procedure. As matters now stand in that state, the city physicians may turn out to be worse than the coroners.

Government Ownership of Railways The populists seem to be concentrating all their energies in support of three planks in their platform. These planks declare against centralization, against the increase of the national bonded debi and in favor of the government ownership of railways.

It will strike almost any thoughtful reader that these propositions are in-consistent. We cannot possibly escape the evils of centralization if the government is to own and operate the rallways. This policy would create an additional force of about 2,000,000 government loyes who would naturally work employes who would naturally work and vote in the interests of the political party under whose administration they secured their jobs. The government's absolute control of our transportation interests would enable it to build up one section at the expense of another, and such an extension of its official patronage would also make it easy for a party to perpetuate itself in power.

The increase of our bonded debt would necessarily follow the government ownership of railways. There are only two necessarily follow the government only two mership of railways. There are only two ways in which the government could own the railways. Confiscation is one way and purchase is the other. Now, do not believe that even the wilder populist advocates this plan. If we purchase our transportation lines the government would have to increase the national debt by issuing billions of dol-lars in bonds which would some day have to be redeemed. It would be an oppressive tax to make the people pay the interest on this new debt of many billions of dollars, and when we con sider the taxes required to pay the principal the average mind is staggered when it attempts to figure out the sum that would be required to foot the bill. As a rule, the populists are farmers and wage workers who protest against high taxes, and governmental extravagance and centralization. If they complain of existing conditions how will they be able to endure the state of affairs that would be brought about by the government ownership of railways If they feel that economy and home rule and lower taxes are the great needs of the present day, what will they do when over their protest the government takes their hard-earnings for two three generations to pay for the railways, and what chance will there be of a free ballot and a fair count when the government scatters 2,000,000 new officeholders and employes over the continent? But if the government should purchase the railways would it give us a better service and lower passenger and freight rates? Let us look into this matter. A report just issued by the federal interstate commerce commission is rather long for reproduction here, but it is too important to be omitted. The

It appear that ten countries do not own erate railroads, viz.: Colombia, Great in and Ireland, Mexico, Paraguay, Peru, Spain, Switzerland, Turkey, United States and Uraguay.

The following governments own and oper ate some of the railways: Argentina, Australia, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Cape of Good Hope, Chile, Denmark, France, Germany, Guatemala, India, Japan, Norway, Portugal, Russia and Swedan, 19 not claimed to be accurate, it i believed that the following summary repre sents an approximately correct statement of the relations of the various governments to the railways of the world:

The relative rates charged for freight and passenger service on the government-owned railroads and the facts cited in connection with such railroads are calculated to afford little encouragement to the advocates of government 'ownership. A comparison of assenger charges per mile shows an aver age in Great Britain of 4.42 cents for first class, 3.20 cents for second class, and 1.94 for third class. In France the average is 3.86 cents for first class, 2.86 for second class, and 2.08 cents for third class, In Germany the rate is 3.10 cents for first class, 2.32 cents for second class, and 1.54 cents for third class. In the United States the average charge is 2.12 cents.

The average charges per ton per mile are follows: In Great Britain, 2.80 cents; in France, 2.20 cents; in Germany, 1.64 cents, and in the United States, 1 cent.

The interest on capital invested in the several countries is as follows: United Kingdom, 4.1 per cent; France, 3.8 per cent; Germany, 5.1 per cent; Russia, 5.3 per cent; Austria, 1 per cent; Belgium, 4.6 per cent; United States, 3.1 per cent; the world, 3.2 The systems of operation of the railroads in different countries is indicated: In Austria about 40 per cent of the railway mileage is owned and about 31 per cent is oper ated by the state. Upon the expiration of charters, not exceeding ninety years, the lines and lands of the company revert to the government, but the equipment remains the property of the private owners. Before a railway is opened it must be appro the minister of commerce. The tariffs of state roads are fixed by the government; they are subject to revision by the govern nt, and the government has power to reduce rates if the earnings exceed 15 per cent on the capital.

For the year 1892 the operation of the government lines resulted in a loss in Canada of over $600,000.

At the present date by far the largest portion (about five-sixths) of the railway system is operated by private companies, each company serving a definite territory and being comparatively free from compe-tition of other lines. But the railroad prop-erties are ultimately to become the property of the government. This system is a mixed one of state and private ownership.

In Germany nearly 50 per cent of the railway mileage is owned by the government Under the law the government is required to manage the railways in the interest of general traffic on a single system. It may cause the construction and equipment of roads and enforce uniform traffic and police regulations. In Great Britain and Ireland the govern ment does not own any of the railways. There are stringent regulations provided by law and administered by the railway mission and board of trade.

Italy has tried both state and private railroads, and has come to the conclusion that it is not advantageous for the state to own and operate railways. The result was a reorganization of the whole railway systems. Under the present system private companies operate the state roads under contract with the government.

In Russia the government is stated to own and operate about 40 per cent of the railway mileage. Nearly all of the railways owned by private companies have received subsi-dies from the government. It is stated that in the United States several of the states have tried ownership in a limited way. Illinois constructed a road at a cost of $1,000,000, but disposed of it for $100,000. Indiana had a similar experience. Georgia owns a railroad, but found it expedient to lease it to a private company. Pennsylvania constructed a railroad from Philadelphia to Columbia, but subsequently sold it. Massachusetts, Michigan and several other states tried the experiment without su

It will be seen from these official statistics that the government ownership of railways does not work satisfactorily anywhere. In Europe it results in high passenger and freight rates, and in this country the states that have owned railways have found it to their interest to sell or lease them. The railways now owned by foreign countries were not purchased by them; they were built hy the governments of those countries. The way to settle the transportation problem is to equip the federal interstate commerce commission with all the necessary power, and organize it some what on the line of our Georgia railway commission. Our commission reduced passenger rates from 5 cents to 3 cents per mile and made a reduction of 50 per cent in many articles of freight. This beats the record in Europe under government ownership. What sense is there in confiscating or buying the railways of the country when the people can control them unde the supervision of a federal commi-sion? We can do this without costin our taxpayers a dollar, and there ize the government or multiply the na-

Doubtless nine-tenths of the railways would be very glad to sell out to the government. Many of them are now operated at a loss, and it would be a big thing if they could find a generous purchaser like the federal government which always pays fancy prices for whatever it buys. The government ownership idea is delusion. It works badly in other countries and gives the people a more expensive and unsatisfactory service than we have here. Government control is the true solution of the problem, and it should come through a federal commission, conducted on the broad lines which have made the Georgia commis sion so efficient, successful and popular.

Just Like a Woman.

One day last week just as Miss Eva Scott, the cashier of a large establishment in Kansas City, was about to close her office, a robber presented a revolver and ordered her to open the safe.

The door of the safe was closed but not locked, and the young lady went to it and grasped the combination. The robber thought that she was opening the door; but she was locking it. She turned the combination and then defied the man to shoot. The fellow uttered an oath and fled

This is a refreshing news item. It is out of the usual order. The average male cashier would have yielded when he saw the pistol and his employer's money would have been turned over to the bold ruffian who demanded it.

The female cashier is the best in the lot. She is just unreasonable enough to take any risk to defend the money entrusted to her care, and this is the kind of eashier that is wanted. A big. stout man in her place would have opened the safe and then fainted or fled.

An Ovation to Senator Walsh. The audience which greeted Senator Patrick' Walsh last night at DeGive's open house was worthy of the man and of Atlanta and gave him a splendid reception.

This city has had no better friend than Mr. Walsh, and Atlanta showed last night that she knows how to honor her friends. The audience which gave Mr. Walsh atter tion and applause was thoroughly repre sentative. It numbered many who do no often attend political assemblages, but who would not miss the opportunity to bear tes timony of their admiration of the man They were rewarded by an admirable speech, which was full of good democratic doctrine, and which was thoroughly en joyed by the audience. Five-cent cotton seems to loom up before our farmers and business men. The discovery will presently be made that the business men in the south are as much interested in fair prices for cotton as the farmers themselves. The Georgia goldbugs say the Ohio der crats will be soundly thrashed this fail. And no doubt the Georgia goldbugs think the Ohio democrats deserve their fate. If some of our populist contemporaries do not agree with us that debt is a factor of prosperity, what do they mean by advocating the government ownership of railways-a policy that would increase our national debt several billions of dollars We spoke of judicious debts, not crazy debts.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

A New York special says: "The Goulds have gone into trade again; this time the staple article is not mouse traps, but matches. Heretofore the Diamond Match Company has controlled the entire trade of this country and has offered powerful re-sistance to the importation of Sweden matches, that can be sold here for half the cost of the native product. This companis more than a trust, It is a national monop is more than a trust. It is a national monopoly. It simply buys outright any competitor worth taking the slightest notice of. It is more powerful than a trust in suppressing competition and keeping up prices. Reliable estimates place the capital of this company at $20,000,000, liberally watered, and the annual earnings at 10 per cent on the capital. This has proved to be more than the Goulds can stand. Edwin, the younger son of his shrewd father, Jay Gould, who is said to be literally a chip of the old block, has organized a company for the manufacture of matches. He has incorporated his company over in New incorporated his company over in New Jersey, although the men interested in it live in this city. It is called the Continental Match Company."

In New York the other day another ex ample of the danger of electricity trans-mitted by water during rain was afforded by the instant killing of a man in Eldridge street through contact with a railing. During every rainstorm every electric wire becomes a constant menace to life. The merest contact with any wet object may be deadly because of some water connection with a neighboring wire. The empress of Germany is so well guarded in the royal palace that recently admittance to her own apartments was refused to her on the assurance of her guard that he did not know her. There is a full corps of just such trusty men detailed to constant duty in her household, and are easily recognized by their great stature and the bright, unique uniform they wear. In color it is a cream white melton, faced, dashed and frogged with clear scarlet cloth and cut very nearly on the pattern of the uniform worn by American soldiers during the revolutionary war. A cocked hat and high, white-topped military boots complete the picturesque costume. New photographs of the empress show her decorated with elaborate ornaments of pearl. They are her favorite jewels, though her collection would by no means favorably compare with those of several American wives of militonaires. By brisk walking and exercise only adopted of late, the first lady of Germany has succeeded in considerably reducing her very ample and solid proportions, at which her sister royalties have been looking decidedly askance. GEORGIA PULITICAL NOTES. This is the schedule The Star published

This is the schedule The Star publishes for Elberton:

"A big democratic rally in Elberton on next Wednesday, the 26th instant. Another democratic rally in Elberton on Friday, the 28th instant. A big democratic barbecue and public speaking in Elberton on first Tuesday in October. Great preparations are being made for the barbecue. On each of the above occasions there will also be great mental feasts, consisting of sound democratic truths and served by some of the foremost statesman of America, such as John B. Gordon, W.Y. Atkinson, Hoke Smith, Thomas G. Lawson, Charles F. Crisp and others."

Speaking of Hon. Carter Tate's recen speech there, The Banks County Gazette

speech there, The Baliks costs, says:

"Fresh from congress with a record for himself for honesty and faithfulness in the fifty-third congress, that is the pride of the whole ninth district, and familiar with the public records, Mr. Tate's speech fell with great force upon the large crowd that heard it. The populists present acknowledged that it was simply unanswerable throughout and many of them have announced their intention of supporting Mr. Tate."

Says The Columbus Enquirer-Sun:

"The senatorial campaign is baginning to grow lively in Chatham. The vote of this county is important, and the candidates are after it. There is no local aspirant and the field is, therefore, open. The Chatham representatives, so far as known, while they may have their differences, have not committed themselves to any of the candidates, which seems to leave it missionary ground."

A good colored citizen of Paulding county, Simon McCoy by name, writes to his col-ored friends through the columns of The Dallas New Era urging them to vote for the democratic nominees for the house and senate. He tells of their kindness to his race, and says:

"I don't think Paulding county could have got any better men than Colonels Bartlett and Spinks. We ought to stick to men who are friends to poor people."

The Cedartown Standard dedicates this humorous verse to Hon. Seab Wright:
"O Colonel Wright, of silver tongue,
We've watched you early, watched you long.
And this brief song of you is sung:
Your's name's all Wright—but you're all

Brunswick will have a tremendous dem cratic rally on Thursday night, September 27th. It will eclipse any heretofore held, and some of the best orators now on the stump will be invited to address the crowd

This was settled yesterday and it secures to the exposition the active services of one of the most prominent railroad men of the south, a man who is magnificently equipped to do splendid work for the exposition.

At the last meeting of the executive committee a committee was appointed to see Captain Tyler, and, if possible, to secure his ald in the manner indicated. Dr. Spalding was at the head of the committee. Yesterday he authorized the announcement that Cap-tain Tyler would accept the position, he having had a conference with the captain upon Captain Tyler is one of the best known railroad men of the south. He has been until recently general manager of the Atlanta and West Point and Western Railway of Alabama, and there is no man in the south closer to the railway interests and better equipped to treat with the railways on behalf of the exposition than is he. He has from the first been deeply in terested in the exposition, is thoroughly familiar with the different steps of the enterprise and will be found very active in the management of the important matters intrusted to him. The exposition is certainly to be congratulated in securing so able a man for this important work.

FOOLED THE OLD FOLKS Mr. R. G. Black and Miss Maude Baer

Married Last Night. There was a quiet wedding last night at home of Mrs. Gilmer at 50 Courtland street, in which there was a tinge of the romantic. The contracting parties were Mr. R. G. Black, who lives at 106 Trinity avenue, and Miss Maude Baer, a very pretty young lady of west Atlanta. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Bren-

It seems that the wedding occurred without the consent of the young lady's fathe and mother, and accordingly parental blessings were not in order. Today the forgiving nature of the older folks will assert itself and all will go merry as the proverbial wedding bell.

Mr. Black is twenty-eight years old and Miss Baer is just sixteen. Mr. Black has been for some time very fond of Miss Baer and about a week ago asked her to marry him, She consented, Both feared parenta, wrath. They decided to make arrange ments as if for a visit to the theater and get married instead. Last night was he time set, and about 8 o'clock the two left apparently with this intention. AT THE THEATER.

Quite a large audience greeted Milton Nobles at the Grand last night and the audience went away thoroughly pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Mr. Nobles has built up quite a large clientele throughout the country and has a number of friends and admirers here in Atlanta who can always be relied on to go and see him. He is quite an unique figure upon the American stage—the one man who has been able to appear in his own plays and do so successfully. There are greater dramatists and greater actors, but in no other man are the two combined as well as "For Revenue Only" was the bill last night. From a literary and artistic standpoint it is the best play he has written.

"The Phoenix" and perhaps others of his melodramas may suit his special admirera better, but this political comedy is a far better production of his pen. It is replete with bright stuff. The man who could with bright stuff. The man who could write this play ought to have concentrated write this play ought to have concentrated his endeavors upon play writing and left the interpretation of his plays to better hands. Many of those composing Mr. Nobles's special clientele may take issue with me when I say that Mr. Nobles is not a great actor; they have seen him foil the villains and aid virtue in its triumphs over vice, and they have their own ideas; it is, after all, a matter of opinion and I differ with them. In the hands of a versatile comedian much more could have been made of the attractive role he assumed last night. As it was, however, he gave an intelligent and characteristic rendering of the role, and it pleased. The company is fair, the gentiemen showing to considerable better advantage than the ladies. Mr. Courtensy, Mr. Willard, Mr. Locks and others, who have character parts, deserve mention. At the matinee today "Love and Law" will be given; tonight it will be "From Sire to Son."

One hears nowadays about a comedian of this school or a tragedian of that school. It is a positive relief to see a comedian of his own school, one who does not follow in the footsteps of others, but preserves his own artistic individuality. About the only man of whom this can be said is Joe Ott, the eccentric comedian who scored such a distinct hit with the "Dazzier" for several seasons. His delightful originality and quaint style has won for him the reputation of being the funniest man on the comedy stage today.

Mr. Ott plays the role in "The Star Gazer" of a dried up astronomer, Professor Jupiter Mars.

The company engaged to support Joe Ott is first-class in every respect and contains some of the brightest lights of the farce comedy stage. One hears nowadays about a cor

The jury in the case of M. H. Reeder against the Atlanta and West Point Railroad Company, which has been on trial in the city court of Atlanta during the present week, on yesterday rendered a verdict finding in favor of the railroad.

Mr. Reeder sued for $5,000 and claimed that he had been wrongfully ejected from the passenger train of the defendant at Fort McPherson, although holding a ticket to Atlanta. The case was hotly contested on both sides and the evidence was decidedly conflicting. Messrs. Bigby, Reed, Berry & Foote represented the plaintiff and the defendant company was represented by Messrs. Dorsey, Brewster & Howell.

Atlanta and the Exposition.

Senator Walsh spoke of Atlanta with pride as a Georgian, and prophesied many things about the future of the city and of the success of the great Cotton States and International exposition.

Said he: "I remember the first time I ever came to Atlanta. It was in March, 1885. I was met by one of your most distinguished pioneer citizens, who has long since gone to join the vast majority over the river—Luther J. Glenn. Atlanta of that the river—Luther J. Glenn. Atlanta of that day and time was far from being the Atanta of today. There was a courthouse here, a few business houses near the Geor-gia railroad depot and an Episcopal church, and a Catholic church. If there were any more houses here then, I don't recall them. Today Atlanta is a city of more than 100,000 population! Blessed by climatic advantages roday Atlanta is a city of more than 100,000 population! Living in a neighboring city, I want to say I have always admired Atlanta and felt a unrill of pride in her people. "In 1881, soon after the centennial, the cotton exposition was conceived and carried to a splendid culmination. That exposition did much for Atlanta, for Georgia and the south. It has shown that where the cotton is raised there is the place to weave it into cloth (applause)—where the raw material is grown along beside the mill; and while it may take time to convey the mills to the fields, I have no more doubt of our final success on that line than that I am looking into your faces tonight.

"Now, Atlanta is about to engage in "Now, Atlanta is about to engage in a great exposition—a Cotton States and International exposition. This is a great enterprise fruitful of great benefit to the country. Atlanta is the one city that had the pluck and resolution to undertake so gigantic an enterprise at a time when the industrial world was drooping and withering.

"An international exposition! An exposition for the northern states; an exposition for the northern states; an exposition for the western states; an exposition for this fair land of the south, where great fields are booming on to a glorious harvest and cotton is fairly frosting the hilltops and valleys with its glorious white. (Applause.) An exposition for Mexico; an exposition for Central and South America and all the Spanish lands below us, whose trade be-longs to us. Now, let this democratic congress secure for this nation the connection sought by the project to build the Nicaragua canal (appleuse) and give us what is ours

"When this proposition to get federal aid to help you hold this great exposition here, I confess many opinions were entertained that the schemes of Atlanta were visionary. but here I want to say that by your plucky citizens' efforts you have convinced the na-tional congress; you have convinced the civilized world that you are going to have the grandest exposition this country ever saw." (Applause.)

Pledges of the Party. The speaker outlined the pledges of the democratic party to the people and showed how they have been fulfilled. Said he: "The democratic party pledged itself to do "My Fellow Citizens—The chairman of the Young Men's Democratic League has delegated to me the honor to introduce to you this evening the speaker who has come at the invitation of this league to address which was denounced as a miserable makeshift. (Applause.)

What the Party Has Done. Recapitulating, Senator Walsh thus told what the democratic party has done:

"1. It has repealed the Sherman law.
"2. It has repealed the federal election "3.It has repealed the McKinley law. It has reduced tariff taxation over sixty millions of dollars. "4. It has added to the free list more than $40,000,000 of articles, embracing the necessaries of life.

RAISING MONBY.

To Pay the Expenses of the Approaching Primary

FOR THE VARIOUS CITY OFFICIALS The Subcommittee Meets in the Council

Chamber and Placesian Assessment on the Candidates.

Speaking of the sugar trust, Senater Walsh said: "Never was there a greater iniquity in the name of the government than the bounty by the McKinley bill given Except the voting places in the wards all arrangements have been perfected for the rimary which takes place October 3d.

And the voting places will be secured just as fast as the members of the subcommittee can find them to a special class, taking 2 cents out of one citizen's pocket and giving it to an-other because he grew sugar. (Applause.) warrant such a course on the part of the American government. If this bounty should last until 1904, according to the pro-portionate advance annually, this govern-ment, by the McKinley bill, would have to pay $152,000,000." "No profession is so meritorious as to

That committee met last night in the council chamber to make all arrangements for the election, and every member was present. Captain W. H. Brotherton, of the subfirst ward, was made chairman of the sub-committee and Mr. A. J. Shropshire, of the Hurrying on to the discussion of the course pursued by the democratic congress, with respect to silver legislation, the speakcrimittee and Mr. A. J. Shropshire, of the second, was made secretary.

"As I understand it," said Captain Brothertan, "this committee was appointed to perfect all arrangements for the election and that is what we are here for. The first thing in order for us, I should think, would be to ascertain what the election is going to cost, and then decide where we are to get the money to pay those bills. The election can't be run for nothing, and it is the candidate, I guess, who must pay the bill." 'The Sherman bill ought never to have been enacted since it was simply making an article of merchandise out of silver.

"Silver has never been fairly treated as its claims deserved at the hands of American lawmakers."
Here Mr. Waish went on to show why England had to resort to the gold standard. He said England was a great crediting nation—a nation to which other nations owed $10,000,000,000. Thus, it was to England's interest to have the single gold basis.

"I do not know all about finances," said who must pay the bill."

"No. It can't be run for nothing," said Mr. Rice. "If you think it can, just try it. I have been through enough of them to know that it costs money. Why, it will take every dollar of $500 to carry off this election."

"That much?" asked Mr. Thompson, of "Yes, sir," replied Mr. Rice, most emphatically. To start with there are seven polling places, which will cost $10 a day each. Then there are three managers and three clerks at each of the seven precincts, making in all forty-two man, who will not making in all forty-two men, who will not take less than $5 a day, but Shrop. get a sheet of paper and put down the figures and we will see."

Mr. Shropshire figured as the members of Mr. Shropshire figured as the members of the committee, one after another, enumer-sted an expense likely to be incurred. Af-ter going over the list two or three times the members became satisfied that every-thing had been provided for, and then a search was made for the assets of the com-

"Oh, he won't go into the primary," re-marked Mr. Rice. "Go on Shrop. Put down one mayor at $50. Now, let's see. The city comptroller gets the next highest salary, and can stand $25. There are two candidates for the place, and that would make

Mr. Shropshire put down the figures as though he were keeping a regular set of books, and Mr. Rice, Judge Hillyer, Captain Brotherton and the other members of the committee continued to assess the value of the office until they had gone through "Now, how about the candidates for altime I was slow to take the position, for there was another whom I had desired to see in the place because I thought he could dermen and councilmen?" asked Mr. Adams, of the fifth ward.

"Let's see," said Mr. Rice, in a medita-tive mood. "We have twenty candidates for aldermen and council, and I move that they be taxed $10 each."

"I move," said Mr. Hillyer, "that we elect Mr. Shropshire treasurer, and that each member of this committee collect the money from the candidates in his ward and turn it over to him so that he may bulls, I suggest, too, that he begin the col-lection at once, so as not to miss any one." "But suppose," said Mr. Adams, "some of them don't pay and won't pay? What

"Why, we will just scratch him," said

"Twould suggest," said Judge Hillyer, "that when a member of this committee encounters a candidate who won't pay the assessment that he report the matter to the chairman of this committee and that the chairman be hereby instructed to publish to the voters of the city the names of all of the candidates who will not pay the assessment."

"Hhat's right," said Mr. Rice.
The members of the committee were instructed to make all detailed arrangements each in his own ward for the election.
In each ward, besides securing the house, the member must see that a table, six chairs and the ballot box in which Mr. Shropshire will have placed the stationery are provided when the polls are opened on the morning of the 3d.

It was decided that the election should be held in conformity with the state laws governing primary elections and that the appearance of a name on the registration books or a certificate of registration in the event the name had been omitted were the essential qualifications for voting on the day of the primary.

"I move," said Judge Hillyer, "that some "I move," said Judge Hillyer, "that some attempt be made to have something like a uniform ticket. Let's try to get tickets something alike."

"That has been provided for," replied Cap-tain Brotherton, "The executive commit-tee has secured a form and has requested all candidates to conform to it in having an candidates to conform to it in having tickets printed."

Captain Brotherton then produced the form and the subcommittee decided that only tickets after that form would be allowed around the polling places. Here is the form:

"And I suggest," said Judge Hillyer, "that as far as possible, we, in making our selections, try to keep in mind that the candidates should have nearly as equal a showing as possible on the board of management."

This is a practical, business-like age. We are a practical, business-like people. Such astances as the foregoing would be absurd and laughable if they were not pitful. The code of ethics prescribes not only he conduct of physicians, but regulates the rices that should be charged by them for helr services.

prices that should be charged by them for their services.

The result is that the people are afraid of large doctor bills, and, in the majority of cases, when they become ill they suffer until their complaint becomes aggravated before they attempt to consult a physician. Any effort to place the services of a physician within the reach of all in the usual practical, business-like way followed by all other professions, is not only frowned down by the medical fraternity, but is met by it with open and violent hostility.

However, "you can always trust to the common sense of the American people," and hence the trementious popularity of the plan inaugurated by Dr. Hathaway of treating patients for a small sum monthly, with medicine furnished in addition.

A Desperate Prisoner Keeps the Jail-

HE DARED THEM TO APPROACH HIM

Locked in a Dung-on-Hard Fight of the Jailers

A desperate burglar with a long knife raised a cyclone of excitement at the jail

· That Jailer Mardis and Turnkey Lambert are living is due entirely to their nerve and physical strength, both of which were brought into prompt action.

Tom Weaver, who is known to the police as one of the most desperate and unreformable offenders in the city, was committed to jail on last Tuesday.

He was thoroughly searched for weapons at the time, but in some way he managed to conceal a long, sharp knife.

He was perfectly quiet and tractable until yesterday, when he exhibited the knife and threatened to cut the throat of the first man that entered his cell.

Jailer Mardis made several efforts to get ssession of the knife without violence but all to no purpose. Mr. Lambert a me to his assistance and after hard work the two officers succeeded in taking the knife from the infurlated negro and handcuffing

He still fought like a -demon, however and for several minutes it looked pretty serious for Jailer Mardis and his assistant. After hard work the negro was forced into the dungeon, where he commenced beating against the watts with the handcuffs.

Jailer Mardis then decided to take him up stairs and chain him to the floor. As soon as the dungeon door was opened the negro sprang upon the jailer and was in the act of striking him on the head with the iron manacles when the latter dealt him a blow with his club that stunned him. The negro continued to fight after recovering and Jailer Mardis thought several times that he would be forced to shoot

Weaver has given the police a great deal of trouble. He has been a bad negro all of his life. Belng almost a giant in size, he is a match for two or three men and the escape of the jail officers without getting badly hurt was very lucky.

FROM INDIANAPOLIS

A. Committee Will Come to Inspect Atlanta's Crematory.

The city council of this city probably did not know how much good they were doing for the city when they decided to put in a crematory to dispose of the city's garbage.

In the early part of the week a committee from the city of Chicago visited the city to inspect the crematory and were highly pleased with what they saw. This morning a committee will arrive in the city from Indianapolis, Ind., for the same purpose. The visitors will be met and entertained by Chief Inspector Veal, who will show them the city and will take them out to the crematory and show them how the garbage of the city is disposed of. The fact is, the city of Atlanta is getting considerable advertisement throughout the country on account of her crematory. She is several pegs ahead of other towns in this matter and they will all probably hasten this matter and they will all probably hasten to catch up. Of couse, before putting in a crematory these towns wish to see how Atlanta's is doing the work required of it. They send committees here to investigate the crematory, and all these committees return to their homes and advertise the city to all whom they see. New York city will send a committee for this purpose in the very near future. Atlanta is the biggest town in the country having a cremagest town in the country having a crema-tory and they all come to see it.

Heretofore the Montgomery lines have been catching the traffic of both the eastern lines, the Southern and the Seaboard.

Now, if it should be the plan to shut the Seaboard out, not allowing it to have close traffic relations with the Montgomery lines, it is probable that there is some truth in the statement that the Seaboard will look around for an outlet of its own to New Orleans and the southwest.

All of the prominent railroad men of this city are making all sorts of predictions about this matter. Unless you kill your doubts they will some day kill you. If you doubt the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla take a half dozen bottles and then doubt and disease will be conquered.

Line-Other Interesting News and Gossip of the Roads.

While the railroad employes of the southern roads for the most part understood the full purpose of Senator Walsh's bill for the prevention of the robbery of mail trains in the United States, a great deal has been made of it by employes in the west who seem to have a totally er-

As is well known to thousands who are familiar with Senator Walsh's personal character and private life, there is not a

For reasons like these, it seemed ridiculous to observe the utterances of some of the railroad employes in the west against

Senator Walsh's bill when he first introduced it in the senate of the United States.

Of course, it was nothing more than an error on the part of the railroad men. It was simply a mistaken idea of the bill and of the man. And yet, it was a mistake that might have meant a great deal to Senator Walsh if he hadn't heard of the erroneous conception of the purpose of his measure placed upon it by the employes of the west, and hastened to correct those

The bill Senator Walsh had introduced in the senate was one providing for the pun-ishment of those "who robbed, or attempt ed to rob, or retarded for the purpose of robbing" trains carrying the mails of the United States government.

The Botherhood of Locomotive Engineers out west, in some local division, catching a mistaken conception of the bill through the imperfect reports that went out over the wires, held a meeting and passed resolutions disapproving the course of the Georgia senator.

of the action of the Brotherhood of Loco-motive Engineers in the papers next morning, he arose in the senate on a question of personal privilege, and said that the brotherhood had been misinformed about the aim of his bill. He said it would seem the engineers had thought it to be a bill to interfere with their strikes, stopping and retarding trains.

Senator Walsh explained in his speech be fore the senate that he had introduced no such bill as the engineers thought he had done. He said that his bill was simply for something loose in the wording of the bill that might have suffered such construction as the engineers had placed upon it, at the same time there had been no such spirit behind the measure, and for this reason he asked the privilege of withdrawing his bill and introducing one more correctly correctly drawn measure which has no word in it about the punishment of train-men for going on a strike, it being plainly brought out that it is on only those who actually rob, or stop for the purpose of robbing trains carrying the United States such a thing when I introduced the bill.

"I had come to introduce the bill under peculiar circumstances. Somebody came to me and told me that he had a private message that a party of robbers were going to stop a train leaving a certain southern city that night for the purpose of robbing it. He asked me why these mail robberies and train looters could not be stopped by law. I told him I thought they ought to be. He said there had always been some defect in the state laws about the business, and that some national law ought to be framed to help put a stop to the practices of the outlaws. Engineers had been killed in their cabs repeatedly, conductors had been shot down like dogs on duty and postal clerks had been killed in various sections of the country, and yet the state authorities seemed unable to catch the ban-dits, they fleeing from one state to another and hiding here and there,

"I took the matter up under such a condition. I thought it ought to be done. Not one word had been said or dreamed of with respect to strikers holding up trains. The idea was simply to punish those who rob the mail trains, or retard them with the United States mails,' and that is the sole spirit behind the measure."

Senator Walsh's bill was referred to the committee on postoffices. It has not been taken up yet because the committee thought it undesirable to recommend any legislation that would interfere with crimi-

An Outlet to the Southwest.

It is quite the rumor around the local railroad offices that the Seaboard Air-Line will make a strenuous effort in the near future to secure control of an outlet to the southwest out of Atlanta-one that it can

Perhaps the reason for this report is based upon the idea so generally prevalent that the recent scoop of the Atlanta and West Point and the Western Railway of Alabama by the Central was for the pur pose of putting its management in the ture solely under the direction of the Southern, which, as is well known, is to own and control the Central.

It is pretty widely believed that the reason for the Central change of manage-son for the Central change of management was to make the Atlanta and West Point and the Western Railway of Alabama simply a part of the Southern. This being true, it is a reasonable presumption that the Seaboard Air-Line, a competitor of the Southern, will not be allowed the traffic relations with the Montgomery lines when the Southern has control of them indirectly through the Central that has been granted in the past.

The title of the bill is 'to protect the

INTERESTING INTERVIEW WITH HIM HE IS AN ABLE MATHEMATICIAN

Professor Spain Is Now on the Stage, and He Will Come to Atlanta in a Short Time.

The story of the resignation of Professor Frank O. Spain, of the Technological school's department of mathematics, was told in The Constitution of Wednesday, and the reasons of his action. Yesterday the vacancy caused by this resignation was filled and the gentleman who has consented to accept the appointment of assistant professor of mathematics is Professor D. Jennings Lucas, of Charleston. The appointment was made upon the recommendation of Professor Lyman Hall, in whose department the vacancy occurred.

Professor Lucas is a young man of fine character and brilliant mental attainments, and is thoroughly qualified to succeed Professor Spain, who was one of the most successful teachers in that department that the school has possessed. Professor Lucas has an excellent record as a teacher in the Porter Military academy, of Charleston, and while in college led his class four years, graduating first in seven depart-ments and second in the remaining two. He is especially fitted for the teaching of mathematics.

In connection with the appointment of Professor Lucas to succeed Professor Spain, it may be stated that the Technological school will open next Wednesday and the promises are especially roseate. There will be more than the usual number of students this year, and the prospects for the classes in every grade over the latest the state of the classes in every grade over the classes. fine classes in every grade are all that could be hoped for. Very few of the boys of last year's classes will fail to return, and they are especially enthusiastic over Professor Spain Coming Here. In less than six weeks Professor Spain, formerly of the Technological school, and ex-center rush of the football team, but now Actor Spain, will be in the city with the company he joined in New York.

Professor Spain was loved by the boys at the Technological school. He was large, handsome and athletic, and won their respect as well as their admiration. When he left his classes at commencement it was believed by all that he would return, but only a few days ago his resignation was received, dated from a town in New York, and telling that he had joined a stage

Already Mr. Spain has been given important roles, and has taken a part in "Ingomar." When his company reaches Atlanta, which it will do in six weeks or less, the Technological school boys will occupy all the boxes, and it will be a strictly "Tech" night. They are going to give him a rousing reception, and he will have every incentive to do his very best. Besides this, Mr. Spain has many friends in Atlanta and they will turn out to help give him a royal welcome to Atlanta in his

FEATHERWEIGHTS FIGHT.

Four Rounds Brought Off in a Room, and Lively Scrapping Done.

The sensation of yesterday in justice court circles was a four-round fight between two featherweight attaches of one of the best known justices in the city. Neither of the men weighs over 110 pounds, though one is taller than the other. One of the combatants was the justice's clerk and the other a bailiff.

A personal grievance was the cause of the fight, and while the rounds were not as long as the regular prize ring rules as-sert, they were very scrappy, and there was no sulking done by either man. The watch was held by a well-known attorney, and a real estate dealer, who is a prom nent figure in "church pillar circles," was referee.

The first round was decidedly lively. The bailiff was excited and punched wildly at his antagonist, who landed twice, but re-ceived a stiff left-hand punch in the eye. A general clinch all over the floor followed and time was up before they could be sep-

Both men came together in elegant shape and there was a rapid mixing. There were a number of blows, some scratching and a little profanity and the second round was stopped. Both men were pretty tired and the third and fourth rounds were uninteresting.

It is understood that each has acquired a wholesome respect for the other's fistic prowess, and the misunderstanding has been arranged, while in the near distance the fluttering of the wings of the allegorical dove of peace may be heard.

Brown's Iron Bitters

They point a way to relief and health, and they are genuine!

For twelve long years I was a great sufferer from kidney and other troubles, and at times was confined to my bed. I tried a number of medicines recommended by sympathizing friends and prescribed by physicians without receiving the least benefit. Then I gave Brown's Iron Bitters a trial, and two bottles brought me off my back, Today I am well and hearty.

And then this:

After being under the care of a physician for eight years, I commenced taking Brown's Iron Bitters with the result that I am entirely cured. It is the best remedy I have ever taken, and I certainly wish that every womin suffering as I did could know its value.

THE MARKET DECLINES AWITH EASE

A Reduction in Rock Island's Dividend Causes a Stir in Financial Circles, and a Decline in That Stock.

NEW YORK, September 21.—The event of the day in financial and stock circles was the reduction in Rock Island's quarterly dividend from 1 to ½ per cent. The opinion had prevailed in certain quarters for some time that the directors would be able to see their way clear to maintain the usual rate, although President Cable's with the control of the should have prepared the the usual rate, although President Cable's utterances of late should have prepared the financial community for today's action of the directors. The street, however, has been operating in the stock of late on the theory that the Burlington and Quincy's policy would be followed, and, as a result when the official announcement of the reduction was made there was a rush to sell. The stock early in the day was bid up 1½ to 65%, but when the action of the directors was promulgated the price broke to 60% under heavy offerings. The sales reached 30,000 shares, a very heavy total for this stock. The other Grangers were inclined to firmness during the morning session, but o firmness during the morning sess the break of 5 points in Rock Island led to heavy realizations and short selling, and St. Paul fell 1% to 65, Burlington and Quincy 1% to 741/2 and Northwest 1% to 1031/s. These stocks assumed a prominent position in the trading, and figured for 87,700 shares a total of 221,732 shares for the entire list. In a general way the market opened easy on account of the realization in Chicago Gas and Sugar, but subsequently showed a tendency to improvement until the Grang-ers broke. Chicago Gas, Louisville and ashville and General Electric presented a firm front. The Levin litigation, by the way, seems to have dropped out of sight way, seems to have dropped out of system and Chicago Gas, which was forced down to 67½ on the announcement of the suit has recovered to 71%@71%. In the closing dealrecovered to 71% 071%. In the closing dealings the pressure against the western shares exerted an unfavorable influence and the market left off with weakness in its tone. Net charges show losses of ½ to 5% per cent, kock Island leading. Lead gained % and Electric % for the day. Linseed Oil lost a point, having sold down

The bond market was strong.

Financial Gossip.

Financial Gossip.

From The New York Stockholder.

With much reluctance representative brokers admit that the tariff settlement and the adjournment of congress have not brought the outsider to the stock exchange. The public seems to be engaged solely in their legitimate business. Likewise it is with regret that business men concede that trade improvement is slower than anticipated, as the usual features show.

The demand for money is very moderate.

A 1 perfect money market is not reconcilable with trade activity. The south is the busy section of the country, a condition reflected by the increase of nearly 20 percent last week in bank clearings at New Orleans compared with 1893. The west is getting duil after a period of spasmodic activity.

This is indicated by Chicago clearings which last week were only 6.9 per cent greater than a year ago. Banks of that city complain of a poor demand for money. Clearings for the week were $83,000,000 compared with $78,000,000 in '93. The gain was the smallest for several weeks.

Probably these considerations had something to do with changing sentiment unfavorably. Probably also the slow growth of business is in part due to the crop disaster in that important section west of the Mississippi. Earnings, too, have been confirming other unfavorable indications. Decreases are surprisingly numerous considerfirming other unfavorable indications. Decreases are surprisingly numerous considering the poor period compared with in 1893. Of the roads making their returns yesterday for the second week in September the majority show losses, notably Texas Pacific $17,208, Rochester and Pittsburg $4,708, Missourl Pacific $18,900 and Chesapeake and Ohio $22,017. Exceptional increases were Northern Pacific $35,315. St. Louis Southwestern $2,436 and Louisville and Nashville $55,548.

western $2,436 and Louisville and Nashville $3,548.

Baltimore and Ohio earnings in August decreased in gross $89,000; operating expenses were reduced $120,000 and the net decreased $1,000. Another monthly statement, that of Union Pacific for July, shows that the gross earnings of this great sysem decreased $433,-200, that expenses were reduced $214,951, and that net earnings decreased $218,333.

As regards the stock market the incidents and influences of Wednesday were limited. Perhaps the most noteworthy event was commercial, occurring outside of Wall street. That was a new low record for cotton. January sold at about 6½ cents. The market has confirmed the bearish views frequently expressed in this paper during the past three or four months and which were based on crop and trade conditions.

The former outlook may not be quite as favorable as a month ago. It is, however, still indicative of an enormous crop. Probably $9,000,000 bales as a guess will be found not far out of the way if the frost keeps off. Prices are low, but if crop prospects are realized and trade revival continues slow they will certainly go materially lower irrespective of speculative railles.

Business with the Merchants.

Business with the Merchants.

From The Wall Street Journal.

We interviewed a prominent merchant, who is in a position to thoroughly understand the movement of general merchandise, the causes of it and general merchantile credits. He tells us: There has been a real improvement in general trade, but for four weeks it was unduly stimulated and there has been a falling off from the extreme activity. Everybody had been waiting for congress to adjourn and this was the signal for merchants all over the country to flock to the east to replenish stocks of staple goods. The low rate fares for Grand Army Republic and Knights of Pythias excursions brought an unusual number of small dealers to New York instead of to interior cities, and the result was that New York merchants had a better four weeks' trade than they have had for any time for five years.

(This demand on first hands set a number

Tears.

(This demand on first hands set a number of mills at work and the improvement has in no way been exaggerated. The demand, too, from consumers, was quite good and a good many duplicate orders have come in necestly. This is true only of the south, southwest and the middle states. The west, the northwest and the Pacific coast are extremely poor and orders from this section are very slack.

What I am afraid of is that the merchants bought a little too heavily and will not sell the goods as rapidly as they expected. This will probably cause a further falling off in the volume of business later on. There is no disguising the fact that the improvement south is phenomenal, and the people. except in boom iron towns, are exceedingly well off. A Shortage in Rice Crop Threatened Foreign and Domestic News Company, N. Y. The rice crop along the Atlantic coast (states of North and South Carolina and Georgia) well advanced and full of promise. Harvesting fairly started, and grain at thresher shows good outturn in quantity and quality. Total outcome estimated at 1,300,000 bushels.

bushels. As regards Louisiana, which is the largest and most important rice growing state, there are reports of untoward experiences by individual planters, taken as a rule early plantings are in good form and white to the harvest the harvest. Estimates regarding the outcome cannot be safely enlarged from those given last month. Every condition at the moment is favorable, and the acreage planted under favoring auspices should be good for a yield of 1,500,000 sacks, but of this amount only 1,000,000 sacks, say 4,000,000 bushels, is really assured.

Clasing Stock Review. Foreign and Domestic News Company by private wire to J. C. Knox, manager: The stock market was weak in the closing hour, particularly for the railroad list. Rock Island was depressed on sales for both accounts and the other Grangers sympathized although there other Grangers sympathized, although there was a brisk demand to cover shorts in Burlirgton and Quincy by the Cammack party, and in St. Paul by the Wheeler brokers. The Industrials were generally firm, except Sugar, which was persistently sold by brokers who usually act for the Havemeyer were on such a liberal scale that bears were unnerved and the smaller traders closed their lines.

Western Union and General Electric were western denoral and a fair amount of stock has been picked up for insiders all day.

Richmond Terminal and Louisville and Nashville resisted the bear pressure and the west kept buying Distilling and Cattle heading.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

more demoralized market than that which confronted the cotton trade in New York today is difficult to imagine. The pressure to sell for both short and long account has been very great, based entirely upon the probability of the crop reaching 9,000,000 bales.

The weakness today has excited no little comment, owing to the lack of buying power at the lowest prices touched on the cotton crop since 1848. During the afternoon the market showed some signs of improvement, advancing 3 to 4 points from the lowest reached, but in the last fifteen minutes a prominent local operator sold the market down by offering large blocks of cotton, closing the market easy at but 1 point above the lowest. The reports of damage to the crop which are being received are not believed, and the market decilines with an ease which is remarkable, in view of the extreme low prices prevailing. The visible supply of cotton tomorrow is expected to show less cotton in sight than any year since 1890. The receipts at the interior towns will exceed those of last year by about thirty thousand bales. The feeling in the market remains entirely bearish.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

NEW YORK, September 21.—(Special.)—
The Liverpool report this morning was better than expected and our opening was at a slight improvement. The heavy selling against purchases of spot cotton again turned the course of prices downward, and January, which in the early dealings brought 6.47, gradually declined to 6.37. The close was easy with 6.38 bid for January, but the decline was at times stubbornly contested, and opinions seem now about evenly divided whether we shall now have a reaction or a further decline. The crop accounts are decidedly unfavorable and if these should be confirmed by The Chronicle tomorrow the bears may change their tune. In the stock market there was an improvement in the forenoon, but the reduction of the Rock Island dividend caused a sharp break in the Grangers before the close. The Industrials were strong.

CHICAGO, September 21.-While trading in wheat today was fairly active, it was confined to a rather narrow limit—1/20%cand was, as has been the case for some time back, of a strictly local character, there being little or no outside orders. December wheat opened at 55%c, sold between 55%65%c and 54%c, closing at 55%56c, unchanged to %c higher. Cash wheat was easy prices &c lower. wheat was easy, prices 1/2c lower.

wheat was easy, prices 25c lower. Corn—On account of the slack shipping de-mand for corn and to make elevator room for oats and wheat, both of which pay a carrying charge to May, elevator concerns were offering October corn at %c over May this morning, against 1%c yesterday. This had a depressing effect and assisted in maintaining the feeling which prevailed throughout the greater part of the session. Cern onened steadier on lighter resolute. Corn opened steadier on lighter receipts here than estimated, and, on some coverings by the shorts. It weakened shortly after-by the shorts. It weakened shortly afterwards, however, on free selling by longs and moderate liquidation by country holders, holding fairly steady on buying against puts. Towards the close the market rallied in sympathy with the strength in wheat and some coverings by shorts. May corn opened 52½652½c, sold between 52½c and 51½c, closing at 52½c, ¼c lower than yesterday. Cash corn was slow, with prices ½c to ic lower.

Oats continued to decline, influenced principally by like action in the corn market. Business was of fair volume, although trades were all rather small. Towards the close the market became firmer in sympathy with the increasing strength in corn. May oats closed ½c lower than yesterday. Cash oats were slow. Prices were ½c to ½c lower.

Provisions opened rather easy on the weak hog market and outside selling. There was one sale of 1,000 barrels of long pork by a commission house, supposed to be for outside account, but which was really for Armour that caused some raiding by the bears. It did not, however, bring out any further stop orders selling. The market was a remarkably strong one in the face of the weak grain markets, the weak holders evidently having been shaken out early in the week. Towards the close the feeling was steady and prices well maintained, especially for the deferred deliveries. January pork

Lamson Bros. & Co's. Grain Letter.
CHICAGO, September 21.—Wheat.—Liquidation continues, and from the lines that have been unloaded the past few days one would think there was not much long wheat left on the market. The early part of the session was unusually heavy and through lack of sustaining influence the market partly sagged of its own weight. Cables showed a ready response to the weakness here, while outside markets are nearly all equally depressed. Exporters report a refusal of their offers last night to the other side, owing to the Danubian and Russian wheat being freely offered lower. Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis continue liberal, though today's 901 cars are somewhat short of last year. Towards the close at 54% for December, there was a rally of 1/4c. Every little break in corn is rapidly followed by wheat.

Corn—The market suffered an early decline of %c. Liverpool was quoted 1/4d off and everybody was sellers from the start. Local receipts, although not up to the estimate, were fairly liberal at 370 cars, and the promise of 400 for tomorrow kept the market in a state of depression. The local trade is talking 50c for May corn at New York and pounding the market.

Oats were fairly active at the opening with prices unchanged.

Provisions were weak and lower at the opening. This was partly in sympathy with the weakness in grain, and later, on good buying by packers, the market firmed up, recovering the early loss.

A RED HOT CARD.

It Is Written by Solicitor General George R. Brown.

HE DEALS WITH CERTAIN ACCUSATIONS

And the Men Who, He Says. Are Responsible for Them.

WHERE HE PLACES THE BLAME

And What He Says About Certain Men. Decidedly Strong Languege Used-A Card That Will Be Read.

Han, George R. Brown, solicitor general of the Blue Ridge circuit, furnishes the following card for publication.

In it Mr. Brown refers to "assaults upon my personal and political character;" places the resposibility where, in his opinion, it belongs, and then proceeds in de-cidedly strong language to pay his respects to those whom he considers responsible for them. It is a card that will, undoubtedly, be widely read.

But here is the card and it speaks for

Mr. Brown's Card.

"Kimball House, Atlanta, Ga., September 21.—To the People of Georgia: I have patiently submitted, during the present year, to assaults upon my personal and official character until I feel that the time has arrived when I should be heard in my own defense. I dislike notoriety, and am adcharacter in the columns of an ewspaper controversies, especially with men of such characters as I shall deal with in this article. But no man is so well established in public confidence that he can afford to have all manner of abuse and opprobrium heaped upon him, even by the lowest and most degraded of his fellow creatures, without showing the resentment that all honest men naturally feel by denouncing the slanders and characterizing the authors of them as they deserve. I shall address myself to the task of disproving every charge that I have noticed while reflects upon me as an officer of the state, and shall give to the people of Georgia some of the reasons why I have been thus mallclously attacked, and shall have something to say personally of the men who have continually and relentlessly pursued me for the last two years, and have dragged my name in the most vindicative and outragous manner before the public week after week in the columns of a newspaper published in this city. I shall speak planny, and with the hope that this controversy, so far as I am concerned, may be brought to a speedy and final conclusion. I have thought that surely, in this good state, that human character is not so cheap that it could be damned and destroyed by the poisonous arrows of hatfed and malice, fired from ambush by personal enemies. I have neither had the time nor the inclination to rush into the public prints to denounce every scrivener who has seen proption to rush into the public prints to de-nounce every scrivener who has seen prop-er to attack me, but there is a limit to human patience; there is a boundary beyond which no man should be allowed to pass. If I must resort to heroic measures to protect my reputation and the good name of those dependent upon me, it is best that it should be done quickly. It may be unpleasant, but, like the flash of lightning from the thunder cloud, let us, at least, hope that it will purify the atmosphere in compensa-tion for the shock that it gives.

"I was elected solicitor general of the Blue Ridge circuit by the general assembly in 1888, without opposition. In 1892 I was re-elected without opposition, receiving the earnest and cordial endorsement of every senator and represen-tative from the circuit. I desire to say that have never heard of any charge being made against my official record by any human being until the present year. When Hon. W. Y. Atkinson announced his candidacy for governor, I pledged him my earnest support. I made no secret of my position, but went to work for him openly and actively, and did not reax my efforts until he was triumphabily nominated. As a citizen of Georgia, I had a right to my preference between the candidates before the people. I had not only the right to support him, but it was perfectly legitimate that I should do everything in my power that was honorable to aid him in his campaign. I aid nothing that was dishonorable. The aid nothing that was dishonorable. The charge has been openly made that I used my omce to promte his interests. The charge has been persistently and repeatedly made that cases were settled and indictments nol prossed in the Blue Ridge circuit for political reasons, and to advance the in-terests of my political friends. Each and every one of these charges I denounce as being utterly false and malicious, and the authors of them I brand as willful and deliberate slanderers.

"The first charge that I noticed was that I continued two criminal cases in Dawson superior court against Mr. J. B. Thomas, the editor of The Dawschville News, and an honorable and respected citizen of Dawson county, in order to secure his support and the support of his paper for Mr. Atkinson for governor. In reply to this charge, i desire to produce the sworn evidence of small fines in cases against Falls and against one Grant Plowman, in consideration of their support for Hen. W. Y. Atkinson for governor. I state most positively and emphatically that I had no such conversation, understanding or agreement with and emphatically that I had no such conversation, understanding or agreement with these men or either of them, directly or indirectly, and the charge, so far as it relates to myself is wholly and unconditionally faise. The evidence that has been produced is, at most, hearsay evidence, and, in reply to it, I offer the statement of Falls and the affidavit of Kincaid, as follows, which fully and completely exonerate me:

"Georgia, Fannin County.—This is to certify that I know A. S. Clay, of Marketta, well. He was at Fannin court. I was present at the election in the primary Detween General Evans and Mr. Atkinson.

"Georgia, Fannin County.—Instance to certify that I know A. S. Clay, of Marietta, well. He was at Fannin court. I was present at the election in the primary between General Evans and Mr. Atkinson. I voted for Mr. Atkinson of my own accord, and without being influenced by any one. Mr. Clay never said a word to me about voting for either Evans or Atkinson. He never tried to influence me in any way by promising to help me in any of my cases. I had Mr. Clay employed as my counsel and pald half the fee in cash and gave him miy note for the balance. I state most positively that Mr. Clay never in any way attempted to influence me in the election. I state now that some weeks ago Mr. R. W. Thornton, of Calhoun, came to me and tried to get me to swear that A. S. Clay and George R. Brown tried to influence me in the election in the primary by promising to help me in my cases. I stated to him positively that neither of the gentlemen in any way whatever had ever done such a thing. He knew this when he published the statement that I had charged otherwise. I stated to him that I had hired my lawyer, paid him cash, and that not a dollar had been knocked off my fines and costs. I paid fines and costs amounting to 37s; besides, I stayed in Fulton county jail on the same cases from the United States courts for two months and was sick the whole time. Mr. Thornton stayed some time, He tried every way he could to get me to swear his way, but I stated to him that I would not swear a lie for him and he got mad find left. I am now sick at home. This could not have occurred in a criminal case for the reasor that Mr. Cornett had no such case in court, as is shown by the following certificate of the clerk, to-wit:

gentleman would resort to this mode of warfare. No brave, honest man would shelter himself behind the corporate name of a newspaper, and, like a cowardly bushwhacker and assassin, fire from ambush upon his enemies. I am determined that I will be attacked by bushwhackers no longer. If a comparished it shell. ger. If I am to be assassinated, it shall be in an open field and in a fair fight. The public shall know who my accusers are.

Their faces shall be unmasked, and I will stand before my calumniators face to face. "The men who are responsible, directly or indirectly, for all that has been said about me in The Atlanta Gazette are two notorious, disreputable biackguards, who practice law in this city; two political pros-titutes who have neither personal honor, nor have reaped the rewards of private virtue.

"I refer to W. C. Glenn and C. D. Maddox.
"Time and space would fall me in an effort to portray the unfathomable depths of rascality to which these men have descended. The English language is inadequate to give them the full measure of their deserts. Two more infamous, dastardly assassins never disgraced a civil-ized community, or dishonored one of the learned professions in this state. When they met, it was a union of two forces which had a perfect affinity for each other. It is a combination between vice, cowardice and rascality. It is a union of all that is low, vulgar, mean and contemptible in human nature. It is a partnership between a cunning knave and a coarse, vulgar, prat-tiling imbecile. As a monumental llar, C. D. Maddox stands without a rival in this state. He is a liar by birth, education and training. He is not only an habitual liar and notorious perjurer, but his moral depravity is only equaled by the imbecility of his mind. I had rather deal with any class of men on earth than a fool. There is no accounting for his actions. You never know where to expect him. He has an incurable disease. His is a malady which medicine will neither heal nor palliate. One of the strange fancies of this peculiar individual is that he is to become famous in some unaccountable manner by attack-ing the officers of the Blue Ridge circuit. It is the constant theme of his thoughts by day, and the subject of his dreams at night. Imagine this unhappy creature, burning with hatred, the little reason that nature has given him consumed by the fires of the fiercest and basest passions of the human heart, thirsting for revenge, blinded human heart, thirsting for revenge, blinded by malice, stalking about over the state in search of notoriety, and what man's character is safe that happens to offend him? The only thing that can be done is to brand him and let him go. Turn him aloose upon his disgraceful mission with the brand of eternal infamy upon him, that will stick to him at home and abroad and wherever he goes, with the hope that in the future the decent people of the state the future the decent people of the state will make proper allowance for anything he may happen to say. Strange as it may seem, this man bears the names of two of the greatest orators of antiquity—Cleero Demosthenes Maddox. It is a custom in some families to name their dogs after great men. Others select some imbecile child and undertake to supply with a name what nature has neglected. But it frequently happens that the dog is killed for worthlessness, and the child is sent to the penitentiary.

"In conclusion, I brand these men and

"In conclusion, I brand these men and each of them as being political bushwhackers, personal cowards and constitutional liars. If this denunciation is severe, it is because the facts are true. "Tis nature's picture too severely true."
